Miller Group invests in new motocross track

by Tim Gilles

The Larry M. Miller Group has spent nearly $1 million to build an eight-lane super moto-cross track on the east infield at Miller Motorsports Park. According to MMP General Manager John Larson, the new track is expected to draw riders from around the world and bring thousands of spectators to Tooele County.

“The Miller family is very excited about the future of the Miller Motorsports Park,” he said. “The track fits our business plan to attract the growing action sports demographic and bring them here to Tooele County.”

In 2011, as part of a business plan to help Miller Motorsports Park become profitable, the Miller family announced that MMP would emphasize action sports and participatory events. Spectators at the MMP motocross track will be able to get close to the action.

“Spectators can stand at the side of the track and almost reach out and touch the riders as they go by,” said Larson. “They might even get hit by flying dirt.”

The MMP track is one of 12 venues for the 2013 Lucas Oil Pro Motocross Championship series, an American Motorcycle Association sanctioned event. “Most motocross tracks are built on the side of a mountain in a remote area,” said Marc Wicker, general manager for Miller Motorsports Park. “We’ve been told by Tooele County’s budget woes, the gristmill may or may not open this year due to Tooele County’s budget woes. Due to Tooele County’s budget woes, the gristmill may or may not open this year.”

The indoor venue won’t have the same feel as the traditional outdoor venue, but the school does have some advantages according to Wicker. “We can start earlier in the season because we don’t have to wait for the rain to go down,” she said. “We will have a conditioning and comfortable theater seats, instead of sitting in the weather.”

Wicker has worked out a rental agreement with the Tooele City School District, which will include use of the school’s sound and light equipment. The arts foundation had to rent sound and light equipment for use at the gristmill. While the sound for UHS works out to a little less than the cost to rent and temporarily install tech equipment at Benson Grizzly, the gristmill production will need to replace about $2,000 in funds provided by a transient room tax grant from Tooele County received in past years.

Wicker has been told by Tooele County Commissioners that they don’t know where they will be able to make the rental. She said she is not sure if the school district will be able to help fund the rental.

Gristmill theater will continue this year but not at the mill

by Tim Gilles

Due to the uncertain future of the Benson Grizzly, its annual theatrical production will move to a different venue this summer.

The Benson Grizzly: Performing Arts Foundation, an informal group of local community theater promoters, announced that the group will stage “The Unsinkable Molly Brown,” in the Stirnley High School auditorium in August.

“We felt it is important to continue the tradition that so many have come to expect, especially during these uncertain times,” said Kimberly Wicker, the show’s producer.

Wicker hopes that the foundation will be able to return to its outdoor venue at the Benson Grizzly in 2014. Due to Tooele County’s budget woes, the gristmill may or may not open this year.

MOURTGOS WINS HUNTSMAN AWARD

Alisha Hollar (center) with Perry Hunt, Gala Chair at the Tooele High School prom in the Utah State Capitol rotunda.

Alisha Hollar, the high school's queen, made it the more special because she was a typical candidate.

The officers set out among classrooms to suggest they also vote for Alisha for prom queen. Fred said the campaign was a marked success.

"It was amazing, a really good," said Hollar. "She received a huge chunk of the vote. The majority of the vote was for her. For Fred, I said, 'My heart felt for her.' She is a very special girl. I don't want anybody to steal her away from me. If you want to steal her, I'll fight you."

Alisha's mother, Cindy Hollar, said she was surprised to hear that Alisha had been nominated in the first place, much less win.

"I thought that was pretty surprising," said Cindy. "They said they were going to give it to Alisha, but they didn't want to do it."

Roberts said Alisha enjoyed getting dressed up and going to the dance, but doesn't know how much of the experience she could process. As Roberts put it, "She didn't really know what it was until it was over."
Man who started school with a goal of 50,000 cans

to count

by Rachel Madison

Kyle Cooper has a lot of aluminum cans to count. Try like 50,000 of them. Cooper, 21, is currently working toward a degree in family and consumer science at Utah State University online. Paying for school hasn’t always been easy for the college junior, which is why he created a solution for getting through this semester without having to apply for student loans or become a store clerk.

Cooper called Greenbox Recycling in Tooele last year and asked if they’d let him build a scholarship program. They agreed, and Cooper’s 50,000 Can Challenge was born.

Greenbox Recycling management told Cooper if he could collect 50,000 cans during this semester, which begins at the first of May, and asked if he would give them a scholarship to pay for a large chunk of his tuition this semester.

The challenge, called Caring Cans, is that individual, group or organization will give to me, Cooper, a group of cans, and we will contact us and we’ll have an application and essay they’ll have to complete.

Greenbox has agreed to pay for a large chunk of his tuition this semester.

Cooper has agreed to pay for a large chunk of his tuition this semester.

Jones said although the scholarship program isn’t quite set in stone, the company hopes to have it ready by fall for the new school year.

“Kyle has helped us immensely in getting the [program] organized and established,” Jones said. “It’s not a totally nailed down, but in the future, students can contact us and we’ll have an application and essay they’ll have to complete.”

Cooper said the solution to gathering all those cans is that people drop off cans at family members’ houses. Cans would just show up on my porch, he said. There were around 200 individual people who donated cans.

Cooper said he will be helping the community, Cooper also found that some cans on major roads like I-80 and SR-36, as well as trash cans at local parks.

Greenbox Recycling has also decided they will give Cooper a bonus if he indeed meets his goal of 50,000 cans. Jones said Greenbox has determined the amount they’ll give him, but they plan to keep it a surprise until Tuesday when Cooper drops off the cans.

Cooper said local businesses didn’t get as involved with his project as Salt Lake City businesses, but Sundance Recreation did provide him with 400 to 500 cans. However, when it came to individuals in Tooele County, Cooper was amazed by the support he received.

“I got a lot of support from individuals in the community,” he said. “I had a lot of people in Tooele that called me and neighbors brought them/friends of family brought them. I even had people drop off cans at family members’ houses. Cans would just show up on my porch, I would say there were around 200 individual people who donated cans.”

In addition to seeking donations from businesses and the community, Cooper also found that some cans on major roads like I-80 and SR-36, as well as trash cans at local parks.

Cooper and friends and family to see if he’s going to make it or not. Cooper said he will be helping the community to deal with the program over the summer.

“Kyle has helped us immeasurably in getting the [program] organized and established,” Jones said. “It’s not a totally nailed down, but in the future, students can contact us and we’ll have an application and essay they’ll have to complete.”

Jones said although the scholarship program isn’t quite set in stone, the company hopes to have it ready by fall for the new school year.

“One of the most positive things that has come out of the project is that a good number of the cans are not that would normally end up in a landfill,” Cooper said. “People have never even heard of recycling in their lives are now seeing their cans for use and giving them to me. It’s been fun to see that change in people.”

Cooper said this change has come to the can challenge, he said. “People just jumped right in and didn’t feel pressured. If we do a non-profit organization like Caring Cans, we can have the same benefits and donate to local charities.”

Cooper said although the non-profit organization has been formed, it doesn’t have its 501(c)3 status yet. After his turns in late May, 50,000 cans this weekend, he hopes to have more time to focus on the organization and saving aluminum businesses to partner with.

“We’ve got a fully running charity yet, because we don’t have solutions to sourcing all the cans,” he said. “We’ve also met a few we’ll collect from consumers, because we don’t have a way to affordably pick up cans from all over; so we work with just businesses. This is something that started, but I think this will be a really good solution for the community.”

I was embarrassed to be pulled over by the police lights until I was already pulled over and that's when the officer told me how fast I was going. I didn't notice until it was too late.

My son, 16, and I were cruising down the highway.

I began to cry. Not just because of the propensity for high-speed accidents — yet still allows for efficient vehicle movement. Slowing down is even better and it will, we will again scratch our heads and say, yes, what could ever possess a nice guy like me to speed?

I should have taken radar signs to get me to slow down.

I was pulled over 10 minutes later, right before Oquirrh Motor Inn. For the southbound signs, the first one is visible 100 feet before the sign is actually on sale at Big 5 in Tooele. I decided to focus back on my business. One huge community event, I was happy to be there.

Karen June Tamlos

Karen June Tamlos was born April 11, 1955 to parents Dean and Janille Tamllos. She lived and grew up in Tooele and graduated from Tooele High School. She was a member of The Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints and had three brothers. They are all so different and loved to tease. Time spent with Courtney was always fun. She was a member of the LDS Church, and was presently a student at Mount Nebo Junior High School, and was presently a student. She was called by her dad) was a result of a tragic auto-pedestrian accident. Courtney (Malad, as she was called by her dad) was an excel- lent student and a security guard for the family business. She worked at Nebo Credit Union for those “happy, happy, happy.” Accounts fell in love with her by their parents. They were great friends who loved each other to touch their lives in her own special way. She died on Oct. 19, 1999 in West Valley City. She loved her family. She had a bubbly personality and a great sense of humor, but she was most of all loved by her family. She is survived by her husband, Robert Kelly Harris, her children Dusty, Lyn Bird, and Larry, her parents Dean and Janille Tamllos, her brothers Rick (Carolyn) Scheese, Christine Scheese, and Betty Tanner and Merla Jensen. She is also survived by her grandchildren and great-grand-children. She had many nieces, uncles and cousins who will miss her deeply. Funeral services were held at the Santangne Stake Yoke, 45 S. 2900 West in Bountiful. The family will be held on Wednesday from 4 to 7 p.m. at the LDS Church. Interments will be held on Tuesday at 10:30 a.m. prior to the service. The service will be at the Tooele City Cemetery. Interment will be at the Tooele City Cemetery. In a world of quick-rising YouTube celebrities, Stansbury High School theater is trying to bring back the days of the true rock stars.

The Stansbury High School Drama Department will perform a five-show run of “Bye Bye Birdie” beginning Thursday, April 25.

The show is a high-energy musical comedy with a heart, said Director Glen Carpenter.

Carpenter said it still has its challenges for the cast.

“I wanted to do something this year that had a large girl cast,” said Carpenter. “Because, like any other theater program in the world, I usually end up having more girls than guys, and this one has a huge girl ensemble, so I have a lot of parts for them. Plus it’s one of my favorite shows. I love the 1950s, and I love the whole Elvis tie-in.”

“Bye Bye Birdie,” a 1960 Tony-winning Broadway musical, is set in 1959, when rock and rollHeartthrob Conrad Birdie, played by Cole Merseth, is drafted into the Army, much to the dismay of his agent, Albert, played by Jonathan Brandaris.

But Albert’s secretary and girlfriend, Rosie, played by McKenna Heap, a 15-year-old from Ohio whose boyfriend, Hugo, played by Kati Ditty, tries to break him up with Rosie, Hugo and Rosie scheme about ruining Conrad, who the little girls go crazy over, and Hugo, Albert and Rosie try to set things straight.

Although the show is a fun, fast-paced production, Carpenter said it still has its challenges for the cast.

“I had more kids than guys this year, which is different,” he said. “I’ve explained numerous jokes to them. And then there’s the fact that none of them lived through the 1950s. I’ve explained numerous jokes to them.”

Besides not getting some of the jokes, many of the students were not aware of the extreme hype that surrounded Elvis and other rock stars 50 years ago, even though some pop stars have come followings today:

“We have pop stars now, like Justin Bieber and those guys, who the little girls go crazy over, and some older women, too,” said Carpenter. “But they don’t get the hysteria over the big rock stars and how some of the girls would follow them around. I grew up with the whole rock magazine where they had the fans take in. Nowadays, they don’t have that. They have the internet, the emails, the twitter accounts.”

Carpenter said because of that high-culture drift, the students’ parents were more excited at first, but that excitement quickly spread to the students. “Their parents have all seen ‘Bye Bye Birdie.' They remember the movie with Dick Van Dyke,” he said. “I had more parents excited about the show than kids at first, but then the kids got into it once I explained it to them. And this truly is one of those shows that you can bring the whole family to.”

“Bye Bye Birdie” opens Thursday and runs through May 7, excluding Sunday, with all shows starting at 7 p.m. The box office opens at 6:30 p.m. Tickets are $7.50 for adults, $5.50 for school-age students, and $3.50 for children under 12 and SHS students with an activity card.

Grantsville, Steensburg and Tooele all placed in the region softball tournaments over the weekend, and all three teams picked up multiple wins in preparation for the state tournament that starts in 11 days.

The tournament was held at Grantsville and Tooele. Grantsville played in three games and went undefeated, and Tooele played in four games, winning three of the four.

Grantsville opened up on Saturday against Copper Hills. The two teams played close with the Cowboys winning 2-0. Granteville’s Sydney Barney picked up the win in the shutout, and Copper Hills’ Rachelle North gave up two hits. However, two errors on Copper Hills helped lead to the two Cowboys runs.

The Cowboys next faced Mountain Crest, and they earned a 3-1 victory. Again, Barney picked up the win pitching for three innings. However, an early hit at 3-1, which the Cowboys answered with one run in the third inning. Finally, the Cowboys took the lead in the sixth inning with two runs, and then they added another in the seventh inning.

Grantsville finished the day with a 6-1 victory against Union. Bailey Critchlow picked up the win as the pitcher, and the Cowboys supported her with runs late in the game. Grantsville jumped ahead with a 1-0 lead in the first inning, and the two teams sat at that score until the fourth inning. Grantsville added two more runs in the fourth and then two more in the fifth after Marin Bailey scored a run and that was the game. The Lady Buffs finally came in the sixth inning to round out the scoring.

Tooele opened on Saturday at Desert Peak against Union in a mercy-rule win 10-0. The Lady Buffs scored five runs in the third inning; those runs in the fourth inning and two runs in the fifth inning to get the win. Trenton Crofts and Whitnie Touhuni led the Lady Buffs with two RBIs each. Lauren Frailey pitched four innings and Hyley Nicholas picked up one inning to combine for the shutout.

However, the Lady Buffs lost 13-5 to Canyon View in the next game. Canyon View, the No. 2 team in Region 9, built an 11-0 lead in the third inning and the Lady Buffs finally scored four runs in the fourth inning to avoid a mercy-rule ending.

Frailey helped the Lady Buffs bounce back in the next game against Weber with a 5-2 win. Frailey struck out seven batters and gave up one unearned run in the victory. Crofts and Nicholas each scored and contributed.

Tooele ended the afternoon with 13-6 wins against Mountain Crest. Crofts went 2-for-5 with six RBIs to lead the Lady Buffs. Nicholas pitched the complete game, striking out four batters along the way. Alongside Crofts, Buffs’ Tyler Fred and Touhuni homed runs as well.

Steensburg won all four of its games over the weekend at the Young For Life tournament. The Lady Stallions opened on Saturday with a 3-0 win against San Juan. They followed that up with a 14-0 win against West, highlighted by a home run from Beth Chapman. The Lady Stallions won their fourth game over Pleasant Grove 9-5, and they finished the day with a 7-0 win against Alta, which was the third meeting of the season between the two teams.
Fourteen seniors represented Grantsville High School in the 52nd annual Wasatch Front Sterling Scholar competition.

The Sterling Scholar Awards are sponsored by the Deseret News and KSL 5 Television. The program publicly recognizes high school seniors from 68 high schools along the Wasatch Front in 13 different categories for outstanding academics, stellar leadership, exemplary citizenship and exceptional service to school and community. Every Sterling Scholar must complete a portfolio documenting their academic achievements, leadership and service.

With the growth in the number of high schools participating in the competition, a new level of judging was instituted this year for the first time. In the first round, students were judged solely on the basis of their portfolios. Next, they were personally interviewed at the semi-final competition by a panel of three judges who are experts in the various categories.

Finally, 15 finalists in each category were selected to move on in the competition. The finalists again competed...

Former GIS teacher retiring after 30 years in education

After 30 years in education, Linda A. Stokes is retiring. She taught high school science at Grunder High School where she taught the science between 1979 and 1990, with a one year leave of absence to have her first child. She was recognized as “Outstanding Educator of Utah” in 1979. After 1990, she became a stay-at-home mom to her four children for 12 years before returning to her teaching career in Jordan School District in 2002 where she has taught family and consumer sciences for the past 14 years. She has been recognized as “Teacher of the Year” three different times in her career. Some of her classroom teaching methods included using hands-on experiments where students would actually make and then eat the things they learned about in class. Students would be honored at an open house hosted by the Jordan High School on May 13 from 3 to 5 p.m.

BIRTHDAY

Key lime pie tastes and looks much like lemon pie but with a bright, smooth and greeny smell, and the best size range is from a ping-pong ball to a golf ball. A fruit similar known as the Persian lime is similar but larger.

On a recent trip to Florida I indulged in key lime pie. One member of our group on the trip has relatives in Florida and has visited there almost yearly since she was a child. She assured us that there is nothing anywhere quite like the pie made in Florida, especially because the recipes are quite different from a ping-pong ball to a golf ball. A fruit similar known as the Persian lime is similar but larger.

Key lime pie is made up of juice, sugar, eggs and condensed milk. There are Key lime pies throughout Florida, where a key lime pies originated here in the Americas.

Once upon a time the goddess of the moon, Rhiannon, rode with her father over the land of fairies. Rhiannon lived in her father's crystal palace at the edge of a shimmering lake.

A beautiful spring day, Rhiannon reappeared. She was too fast, the servant said. Her horse galloped past without even turning to look at Pwyll.

"She was too fast," the servant said. "Her horse did not let me catch Rhiannon."

"I must marry that girl," Pwyll said.

"I know," she galloped past without even turning to look at him, and he fell instantly in love at the sight of this beautiful woman in glittering gold.

Pwyll immediately understood she had chosen him. "Come to my kingdom with me," he said, but she told him she would return in one year. And then she vanished.

A whole year passed, when, on a beautiful spring day, Rhiannon reappeared. She told the servant that the time had come. Rhiannon placed her bag next to her on a chair. The servant watched in amazement as the trees lifted Rhiannon onto his horse. The boy gave birth to a strong, healthy son, and six servants appeared, along with a great feast, and for seven years everyone sang and danced and ate with worry and fear dissolved. They all traveled to the castle and watched in amazement as the trees spread throughout the country. They were afraid until they reached the castle gate, wearing a horse collar. To all who threatened. Rhiannon tried to calm him, "You are my husband's eyes in his eyes."

"Now we shall celebrate our wedding," Rhiannon told Pwyll. Hundred斯 were expressed, along with a great feast, and for seven years everyone sang and danced and ate. After all, she was an outsider. Terrified, she decided she must blame the queen.

"I know," she told him, and he galloped past without even turning to look at her. From that moment he could think of nothing but her.

"I must marry that girl," Pwyll said.

"You must," his friends told him. "You cannot lose one of the fairies, she has only become yours!"

But Pwyll did not listen. Instead, he sent his servants to catch Rhiannon. The servants set off, but soon returned to report the goddess had escaped. "Nothing is too fast," the servant said. "Her horse rode as if it were moving through the earth."

"I know," Pwyll said. "I must capture the horse."

Once again Rhiannon appeared and galloped away, but this time Pwyll gave chase... before he spotted out of sight, he called, "Horse, wait!"

And she stopped.

"Let me come to your castle, and Rhiannon smiled at him and said. "You ought to have called long ago and saved your horse."

Wales welcomed her. For two years all was joyous, but soon people began to question Rhiannon's fitness on a queen, for she had not yet had a child. Many turned against her and refused to call her their queen.
