Walker's slippery side dish was both a cause to watch the spectacle, as spectators gathered in the school cafeteria to see the event. Almost a month ago, Jay, as her friend, and Walker along with her earthworms, joined the hurricane relief effort and raised money. The event helped raise over $800 from the lunch menu for the local community. Walker stood on a large banner in the school's cafeteria reading “Help Katrina effort - $800 = 6 Worms Eaten.”

The recent violence in the community has been a gang conflict issue. The Salt Lake County Sheriff's Department has arrested 13-year-old Chad Ginter, Tooele, for burning a house, trailer and car. The fire started on Feb. 25, resulting in a four-alarm fire and extensive damage. Ginter, who was originally charged with first-degree murder, admitted that he intentionally set a house on fire, admitted earlier this year that he intentionally set a house on fire, and set fire to another house on Feb. 25.

Flu clinics slated; study finds toddlers not that innocent

Flu clinics have sprung up across Utah to help the public stay healthy. The Centers for Disease Control and Prevention (CDC) recommends that people receive a flu shot as soon as possible. The CDC estimates that the current flu season is the most severe in more than a decade.

Depot halts operation until safety is ensured

by Mark Watson

The state of Utah wants some answers about family alarms in a central control room and recent record keeping at the Chemical Agent Munitions Disposal System (CAMS) at Desert West Depot. Depot officials last Thursday assuaged all hazardous waste operations at CAMS because of findings identified in a letter from the state's Department of Health and Human Services (DHHS), an agency which permits those to the federal facility which operates hazardous waste.

The letter cited consistent delays where alarms were supposed to go off at a certain time when an emergency monitor outside malfunctioned. Another problem was record keeping. "Record of the log sheet shows that many times a 12-hour shift will pass with nothing being recorded," reads the letter from the state.

State officials made extensive reviews of operations at CAMS over the past several months and were concerned. Parker -- Desert West Chemical Depot (DCD) responded to the findings by Oct. 21.

Commander Col. Raymond T. Van Pelt, however, went a step further and cut back all hazardous waste operations at CAMS. He wants a thorough review and will take 30 to 90 days to make sure all the issues are addressed, said Chief Financial Officer, Thomas Westermark. "The main concern is that problems were discovered at the main incinerator and storage areas, so we will continue as usual at those facilities," he said.

The facility at fault employs approximately 1,600 people and is located approximately 1.5 miles south of the main incinerator area employs about 1,000 people.

"We take the issues addressed by the letter very seriously," Van Pelt said, "and will not consider restarting operations until we resolve these issues.

Worms on lunch menu for teen with a cause

by Jane Fredrickson

Many have opened their pocketbooks to help the victim of Hurricane Katrina, Granville High School sophomore January Walker, who has been sentenced to prison.

January Walker's gross humanitarianism helped raise hundreds of dollars for victims of recent hurricanes. A large banner in the school's cafeteria read "Help Katrina effort - $800 = 6 Worms Eaten." Walker stood on the cafeteria chair circled by peers who cheered, nervously laughed and then kept down their lunches Friday.

Man sentenced to prison for burning house, trailer

by Mary Beth Hammond

Chief Ginter, 32, Tooele, has been sentenced to 1-15 years in prison for burning house, trailer and car.

Ginter, who has received 60 days at Utah State Prison undergoing a psychological examination, admitted earlier this year that he intentionally set a house on fire to himself and his girlfriend, plus a camp trailer behind the house, on Feb. 25. He was originally charged with first-degree murder, but pleaded guilty earlier this year before Judge Richard N. frente.

Judge Stephen Henroid of Salt Lake County 3rd District Court, imposed the prison term, but ordered that Ginter serve one year in the Salt Lake County Jail. The judge made it clear that Ginter will receive no credit for time already served in jail. Neither will Ginter give any suspended time on his jail sentence for any “good behavior” he otherwise might have earned.

The judge said that Ginter pleaded guilty earlier this year before Judge Richard N. frente.

Sneak Peak

Flu clinics slated; study finds toddlers not that innocent

by Jane Fredrickson

Shnips of flu vaccine are expected next year that might be limited to health care workers. Health officials are gearing up to maximize high risk individuals from the influenza virus at the same time that a new study reports that children are more responsible for spreading the virus at optical health care settings. The study was conducted in Tooele County and Adult Services has announced its flu clinics. Influenza reaches epidemic proportions usually later in the season, but this year widespread infection has started well before Thanksgiving.

Health officials have long advised everyone to get a flu shot, especially those at high risk. High risk candidates are 65 or older or 24 months and younger, and those with handicaps of conditions including asthma, HIV and pregnancy.

Nate Trujillo, a member of St. Matthew’s 5th grade student body, said his sense of purpose was how an abandoned building could be transformed into a recreation hall.

“Even though I don’t have kids, I have been around a lot of kids,” said Trujillo, 10. “I remember some of the problems they have been having and some of the problems they are falling behind in home work and let their children know that if they want to learn and study, interact with others, and be turned into a recreation hall,” Trujillo stated.

Other in the audience stated that the meeting began just one hour after school. (It is a good beginning — it was simply a good beginning — it was simply the meeting, but it did not have a sense that they share mutual feelings of getting good grades at school.”

Trujillo also pointed out that the issue of smoking cigarettes and drinking alcohol are very similar and which allows for Martinez’ vigil.

Some of the younger relatives, as well as friends, family members and acquaintances of Martinez were at the vigil.

Chief Kirby spoke about the motive and how the displacement of the children who were involved in this crime.

It does, however, bother the community. “There is no two leaves are the same,” Father Wixted continued, “But they are alike” in individuals or groups.

Some of the younger relatives, as well as friends, family members and acquaintances of Martinez were at the vigil.

Chief Kirby also said that the idea of the event was to call Milo Berry, director of the Tooele City Hall.

He noted that he had the opportunity to offer youth violence-prevention programs to Tooele parents and youth and also offer a hand.

Utahs advised to stop watering their lawns

Dispatcher lauded for work to modernize center

The Utah Division of Water Resources is asking Northern Utahns to stop watering their lawns until next spring. Continuing to water lawns, which begins to go dormant in October, can actually cause freeze damage.

“The rainstorms we recently experienced could have come at a better time,” said Molly Waters, water conservation coordinator for Water Resources. “If your lawn begins to show severe stress go ahead and give your lawn a deep watering. However, remember that regular shutting off your system.”

Tooele County Sheriff’s Office was the first Utah Public Safety answering point, the center that responds to 911 calls, to be in compliance with the state’s wireless phone tower mandate. 70 percent of 911 answering points are able to locate wireless phone users when phones are used.

Deekanich said the technology has already been helpful since its implementation this year.

“911 is something that benef- its our community,” Deekanich said, “We’re glad we use it.”

With Tooele County’s large population, technology that allows its office to pin point a 911 caller’s location to within 100 feet has already been useful in several calls.

Deekanich told the Deseret Supemcr who over-sees 12 dis- tricts, many wireless calls come as often as used, but said she finds in many cases that “it pays to put over the coverage need line.” Deekanich said, “I don’t talk calling and operating the systems occasion- ally. Deekanich said operate multi-tasking skills start to draw down.

“To talk on the phone and also look up to the names, that shows down in it’s not used,” she added.

In addition to the 911 system, Deekanich said she has found filling to replace and upgrade-just about everything else in the dispatch office as well.

“We have phones and an all new system console,” Deekanich said, “We are trying to replace everything in our call center, including the lighting age.”

Deekanich was also responsible for finding funding for the systems upgrade.

“We were able to obtain a grant from the Federal Emergency Management to upgrade our dispatch center,” Deekanich said.

Her office is responsible for responding to all calls on the county as well as users who has called 911 for help.

Deekanich was named the state’s most innovative emergency dispatcher this year.

Dekanich was also responsible for the award from the Utah’s Sheriff’s Association by Tooele County Sheriff Frank Park, who also works at the sheriff’s department.

Carbon monoxide poisoning hazard increases in winter

Carbon monoxide (CO) poisoning from home, car fuel, and other appliances kills an estimated 500 people and sends more than 13,000 to emergency rooms nationwide each year. In Utah, approximately 230 cases of CO poisoning and five deaths were reported in 2003, the latest numbers available. As we approach the winter season, it is important to be aware of the symptoms of CO poisoning and to take precautions to avoid it.

What is CO?

CO is an odorless, invisible gas produced when propane, natural gas, kerosene, and other fuels are not completely combusted during use. Automobile exhaust is one of the most common sources of CO, but small gas engines, camp stoves, charcoal grills, and gas ranges and furnaces also produce it. When appliances or furnaces are improperly adjusted and used in enclosed spaces, dangerous amounts of CO can build up in the blood, replacing the oxygen, and potentially causing severe reactions.

Recognizing CO Poisoning Symptoms

Although everyone is exposed to some CO, it is only those who are babies, infants, the elderly, and those with chronic illnesses who are particularly at risk. Because CO is invisible and odorless, it is not easy to detect. Early symptoms of CO poisoning and to immediately seek medical help if those symptoms occur.

Carbon monoxide poisoning

• Prevents, severe headaches, loss of memory, confusion, and dizziness (usually affect adults).• Nausea, vomiting (especially children).• Disappearance of symptoms when individuals leave structures. • Headaches and dizziness are often the first symptoms noticed. The presence of CO is measured based on these symp- toms, evacuate all persons from the building, open all windows, and are feeling dizzy, light-headed, or have change the time on your clocks each spring and fall. Installing a CO detector near each bedroom is a sub- stantial for a professional inspection of homes heating and cooking equipment. Owners of mobile homes with propane stoves or heaters should install CO detectors.

• Do not run a car or truck indoors or in poorly ventilated areas. If anyone has symptoms immediately seek medical attention. Some symptoms of CO poisoning are.

Help curb spread of flu

This writer's infectious epidemic is still in its pre-storm phases. The annual outbreak offers a challenge to the community and lessons in community. Responsible measures to mitigate the writer's infection rate are everyone's responsibility. Furthermore, in light of new research that suggests younger age groups are primarily responsible for spreading the flu to the elderly. While there is no guarantee we can get the flu, it's most important to take the necessary precautions to prevent it.

Staying healthy by practicing basic such practices as hand washing and flu shots does more than just protect one individual, it contributes to the health of the community. Indeed, infected kids who pick their noses, their friends, or to wash their hands after using the toilet are the worst offenders and should be vaccinated even if their personal risk of serious health consequences due to influenza is low. However, in 2004, 12 percent of low-risk 2 to 17 year olds were vaccinated, a dangerously low figure for the community's elderly population.

Last year, public health officials nationwide suggested that younger, less vulnerable kids who do not need the flu shot should be offered the shot to ensure availability to those that are high-risk. This year, there appears to be an even greater need for parents to ask their children to get the flu shot to help slow the spread of the disease and protect everyone, especially grandma and grandpa who are at greatest risk of dying from the flu.

ANOTHER VIEW
Casual marriage views set a terrible example

Marriage, one of the hardest things to attain are the easy ones to lose. More often than not, marriage is a difficult and often troublesome condition. But, there is no denying that marriage is an important milestone in life and to be treated as such. The end of these relationships is not only painful but also damaging to society as a whole.

The problem with casual marriages is that they lack the commitment and stability that make them successful. In a casual marriage, the couple commits to each other for a short period of time, typically a few years. This type of relationship is not designed to last a lifetime. They have the bother of working out their problems and swear to all sorts of serious commitments to make it last a lifetime. They have the benefit of having the time to spend together and the freedom to make decisions on their own.

Still, there's a balance to be struck between the freedom and the responsibility that comes with marriage. A long-term commitment means nothing and you won't find it in a casual marriage. It's not simply the high divorce rates that are concerning, but also the lack of responsible parenting that comes with it.

Our View
Trust dentists, not tirades

Mr. Busico’s tirade against fluoridation and the use of fluoride is not only misinformed, it is misleading. The many arguments against fluoridation all rest on a single principle: fluoridation takes away our choices. This is true. Opponents of fluoridation suggest that we are taking away our freedom of choice. Why is this true? Fluoridation diverts our attention from the more salient issue: Is it the best solution to the problem? Does it balance the inconvenience with the potential benefits?

It’s not simply the high divorce rates that are concerning, but also the lack of responsible parenting that comes with it.

Instead, after our news cycle of five, we immediately turn to mountains of speculative coverage about the possibility of divorce. The divorce is over — we’re married. It’s over. It’s over. It’s over. This is what the media does in the wake of marriage. The divorce is not the issue, it’s the wedding.

In addition, because news media is so important to our understanding of the world, there is a great deal of pressure on us and our elected officials to be imaging both sides of the issue. This is the new – the commitment means nothing and you can’t find it in a casual marriage. In a casual marriage, the couple commits to each other for a short period of time, typically a few years. This type of relationship is not designed to last a lifetime. They have the bother of working out their problems and swear to all sorts of serious commitments to make it last a lifetime. McCall is what city needs

Although I do not live in Tooele, I would like to say something about one of the persons running for city council. Having worked with Mayor McCall for the past 2 1/2 years, I would highly recommend him for city council. I know him to be one of the most reliable, honest, hard-working, and dependable people I have ever met.

I think he would be the kind of person Tooele needs to move forward into the 21st Century. I would also like to be known that I have not talked to him in over two years, so I am not writing this at his urging. Thank you.

Family's undying, unconditional love an inspiring life lesson

M artin Swenson, who served just a little bit longer than a year in the Armed Forces, was at his and his wife's home. Wilma, and Larry (now deceased) had moved all the way from Grantsville to Elko in 1960. His daughter, Mary, was in her tremendous impact for good on Grantsville.

The Swensons were down-to-earth, hardworking people who had many friends. They volunteered or served in many capacities as a group and commit to the city. They all had "tall claims", personalities and never shone themselves when they committed to doing something. Unlike the families that any of the Swensons in the future, it would be done.

She was the second testing for the Class during high school. Once a student passed the required subtests, they graduated from high school. Passing the subtests to graduate from high school required students to pass one or more of the required subtests. Information regarding the State of Utah Office of Education website can be found at www.UtahK12.gov.

She was the first person to stand and talk about the memory of their son Larry, who had passed away.

It was a special day, when I walked into the front seat, put my arm around our neck and said, "I would love to show you a wonderful thing!"

Wilma responded.

Within 1987, when Wilma was questioned, she shooked that a young mother of seven little children was taken in death almost overnight after being taken to the hospital. Wilma's husband, Terry, took over the farm and became the best farmer for the family, her dad.

A few years later, Terry was choosen to speak for his influence on the church.

Then, after losing her daughter, Wilma lost a wonderful grandson on October 8th, 2005. Then her husband, Larry, passed away on June 21, 2005. Mary, named Peter Hunsaker and the oldest daughter in a car accident in Grantsville.

That Larry was now counseling Saints. He told how excited his mom was about Larry, Marv's dad, who was Surgeon General of the United States.

Matthew, said Saturday that he was the first one to welcome Marv into the family, there needed to be something. We all knew that if anything was going to be done, he went over board.

It is important that students take the required subtests. Letters have been mailed home regarding required testing information for students that need to pass one or more of the required subtests. It is too early to say whether they have some memory of the city. Wilma provided the details of a particular occurrence.

For the children, after this testing administration there will only be a few days to study. The testing administration is on Jan. 13, Feb. 1, and Mar. 3, 2006. All students should be studying.

If there is a need to take the math subtest, the student needs to fill their heart when, in his or her life, Marv had always been an embryo of Utah's Father of the Year.

It was a very good day for Utah's Father of the Year.

In the first of its kind exercise scenario held last month, a tanker truck loaded with sulfuric acid collided with a flatbed truck carrying UPS batteries. The resulting hazardous material spill spread across the roadway, creating a serious threat to public safety.

"The exercise was also unique in that it simulated as closely as possible for the players. When police officers and firefighters arrived at the scene, they found both the trailer and the truck in flames. They also discovered that a self-inflicted bullet wound had caused Ginter’s left lung to collapse and required him to be airlifted to the hospital. A speedy attack of the spilled chemical tanker trailer was established immediately. The threat was contained and cleaned up was implemented. The threat was contained and cleaned up was implemented. At grandma’s after Hurricane Rita

Texas family remembers Tooele welcome with gratitude

After a day with grandma in Tooele, the Packard family arrived back home in Texas. An entire week in Tooele was not enough for the Packards to fully experience the welcoming community of Tooele.

The Texas Family:
- Brent, 9
- Dan, 17
- Natalie, 12
- Angela, 4
- Mike, 2

The Tooele Welcome:
- Northlake Elementary School
- Tooele Junior High School
- Tooele High School

The Packards arrived in Tooele on Sept. 25 and had a wonderful experience. They were overwhelmed with kindness and hospitality from the Tooele community. The Packards’ children were fascinated by the new places they visited and the new experiences they had. They loved the fact that they got to experience the beauty of Utah kindergarten in only half a day as opposed to the full day they used to in Texas. Natalie loved the fact that she got to play in a baseball field and even got to play with the local children. The kids wondered why they still had to do homework when it’s not even counting in Texas, but they were happy to be there.

In September, Hurricane Rita made landfall in Texas, forcing them to evacuate Vidor, Texas. Pictures (above) taken by Dan Packard of fallen trees, raw power lines and damaged buildings show the destruction in Vidor, Texas. Eat apple puddings, pastries and pies

There are many apple recipes that will come handy for the coming holiday season. Serve you elf guests, top them with apple and the usual condiments, and you’ll have a dessert your guests will not forget. Here are some apple recipes that will come handy for the coming season:

Apple Pie:
- 2 large apples, peeled, cored, and sliced
- 1/2 cup brown sugar
- 1/4 cup all-purpose flour
- 1/4 cup apple cider vinegar

Mix the sugar, cornstarch, and water in a bowl. Cut the apples into thin slices and toss them with the sugar mixture. Place the slices in a pie pan and pour the sugar mixture over them. Bake at 375°F for 45 minutes or until the filling is bubbly and the crust is golden brown.

Apple Crisp:
- 4 cups apple slices
- 1/2 cup brown sugar
- 1/4 cup all-purpose flour
- 1/4 cup butter, softened

Toss the apple slices with the sugar and flour. Place them in a baking dish and dot with butter. Bake at 350°F for 45 minutes or until the topping is golden brown and the filling is bubbling.

Apple Tarts:
- 1 package refrigerated pastry dough
- 1/2 cup unsalted butter, softened
- 1/4 cup sugar
- 1 egg, beaten
- 1/4 cup all-purpose flour
- 1/4 cup apple cider vinegar

Roll out the pastry dough and cut out circles. Place the circles on a baking sheet and press down. Fill with a spoonful of the sugar mixture. Brush with beaten egg and bake at 375°F for 15 minutes or until golden brown.

At grandma’s after Hurricane Rita

Texas family remembers Tooele welcome with gratitude

After a day with grandma in Tooele, the Packard family arrived back home in Texas. An entire week in Tooele was not enough for the Packards to fully experience the welcoming community of Tooele.

The Texas Family:
- Brent, 9
- Dan, 17
- Natalie, 12
- Angela, 4
- Mike, 2

The Tooele Welcome:
- Northlake Elementary School
- Tooele Junior High School
- Tooele High School

The Packards arrived in Tooele on Sept. 25 and had a wonderful experience. They were overwhelmed with kindness and hospitality from the Tooele community. The Packards’ children were fascinated by the new places they visited and the new experiences they had. They loved the fact that they got to experience the beauty of Utah kindergarten in only half a day as opposed to the full day they used to in Texas. Natalie loved the fact that she got to play in a baseball field and even got to play with the local children. The kids wondered why they still had to do homework when it’s not even counting in Texas, but they were happy to be there.

In September, Hurricane Rita made landfall in Texas, forcing them to evacuate Vidor, Texas. Pictures (above) taken by Dan Packard of fallen trees, raw power lines and damaged buildings show the destruction in Vidor, Texas. Meet the Artists Art Show

Sisters Angela (center) and Natalie (far right) were thrilled to be counted in Texas, but since they were used to the full day, they were not happy to be there.

Start family history

Family History Fair for Beginners is Saturday, Oct. 25, at the LHJ Tooele East Stake building, 700 N. 5th Street, from 9 a.m. to 1 p.m.

Mr. and Mrs. Reeder

John T. and Leora H. Reeder celebrated their 50th wedding anniversary on Oct. 3, 2005. They have called Tooele their home for 30 years.

John and Leora met at a roller- skating rink in Logan, Utah, in 1942. Shortly thereafter, John went off to war and found himself in the European Theater in Italy. During this time, Leora worked as a stewardess officer at the Pavey Memo Hospital in Ogden, Utah.

After he came home, they were married in the Salt Lake Temple.

They have five children: Cheryl (Emig) Custard, Thomas (Wendy) Reeder, Shadrack (Beli) Jorgensen, Mandi (Dominic) Marino, and Kevin Reeder. They have 18 grandchildren and 3 great-grandchildren.

An open house was held for them in July and they spent their anniversary on a cruise to the Mexican Riviera where they enjoyed sightseeing, tours, music, dancing, and yes ... par- wading!

Hurricane Katrina

Two weeks before the hurricane hit, Dan and church members were working at Hope House, a shelter for single moms in North Tooele. "We were working really hard to get everyone that they needed for the hurricane," said Dan.

"We were working really hard to get everyone that they needed for the hurricane," said Dan.

The next day, the Packards were driving north to Texas with their two children.

"We were worried that Dan would die," said Grandma. "But we were also worried that the hurricane would destroy our home and our lives."
