State of City: Dunlavy promises managed growth

by Suzanne Aube

Mayor Patrick Dunlavy delivered his first State of the City address Wednesday to the Tooele City Council members at a City Hall crowded with a high school student choir, Rotaract, and elementary school students waiting to receive awards. The address touched on past accomplishments, but dealt mainly with upcoming projects and issues in the context of the city's rapid growth.

The mayor began his upbeat speech by pointing to a plaque on his office wall that declares, “Tooele — The Greatest City in Utah.” He moved on from there to discuss water and wastewater issues, economic growth and quality-of-life issues such as public services, recreation facilities and arts programs. He concluded the speech with a report on the city’s finances and a message of thanks to his staff, city employees and citizens. The full text of Dunlavy’s speech begins on A6. The following is a summary of the main points of his address.

Growth and development
The expansion of Tooele’s wastewater treatment plant — an 18-month project — is sched-

Ueditorared to begin this spring. The city growth and a need for new plant expansion was taken into consideration when the existing plant was built only seven years ago. The plan currently handles 1.8 million gallons of wastewater, Tooele Mayor Patrick Dunlavy said.

The new school will have the capacity to house 700 students, Superintendent Mike Johnsen said. The new school will also move to the current park area and expand on the east side.

Even when the new school comes online, however, Johnsen, who will project area schools will still be operating at 97 percent capacity in 2008-2009.

“A school has to get to more than 100 percent capacity before we would build a new school,” he added.

The new school will have the new in the fall of 2008, according to Tooele County School District Superintendent Mike Johnson. Tooele City Council President Bob Bevan said he was looking forward to the project.

The Tooele City School Board voted Tuesday to build a $12 million elementary school on and Stansbury Park based on curriculum ideas he believes are some of the brightest in her class. Her language skills training allows her to instruct the children, who she sees as some of the brightest in her class.

Demand for ELL-trained teachers soars

Mayor Dunlavy said the city is in an excellent financial position in his State of the City address. He also talked about new developments in the area.

Site wins out over Grantsburg, Stansbury for $12 million school

The Tooele City School Board voted Tuesday to build a $12 million elementary school on a 40-acre lot in the southwestern part of Tooele near 800 West and Tongue Road.

The site was chosen over proposed locations in Grantsburg and Stansbury Park based on current enrollment and future growth trends.

The Tooele County School District has enough non-ELL-trained students to fill an elementary school, and the number has been growing weekly.

Low snowpack hints at dry summer ahead

by Mark Watson

It appears a two-year run of wet winters will end unless Tooele County’s mountains are pounded with big snowstorms over the next six weeks.

The snowpack in the Oquirrh Mountains was measured at only 62 percent of normal as of Wednesday, according to the Natural Resources Conservation Service. At the mining Fork monitoring site in the Stansbury Mountains, the snowpack measured 71 percent of normal and at the Vernon station the snowpack was down to 60 percent.

This statistic, the entire state is down to 60 percent of normal," said Randy Islander, state snow survey supervisor for the US. "The NRECS measures snow amounts in the mountains from October through April. After four months of winter the snowpack doesn’t promise a big spring runoff.

"We’ll be to get 156 percent of normal precipitation over the next two months just to get back to average for the year," said Boulevard Canyon Irrigation President Gary Bevan. "It’s terrible all over the state. It about made me sick to my stomach. I don’t know if I could do this.

"We will not allow growth, we will not put the city in a position that will in any way compromise our ability to provide public services, recreation facilities and arts programs," Dunlavy said.

The mayor also addressed “managed growth.” As more developers discover Tooele, he promised new developments will not dictate policy in the city.

“We will not allow growth, especially residential growth, to go forward in any way that compromise our ability to provide city services,” Dunlavy said.

Currently there are several 40-foot plumes of smoke in the city of Tooele.

It also mentioned the need to expand the police and fire departments.

Nevada lawmakers urged to fund anti-nuclear dump agency

CARSON CITY, Nev. (AP) — The director of Nevada’s nuclear watchdog agency told lawmakers Tuesday that a proposed polygamy settlement with the Yucca Mountain nuclear waste facility may be on the horizon.

Despite the difficulty, the U.S. Department of Energy still plans to build a facility at Yucca Mountain for the nuclear waste that has been sitting in regional storage for 20 years. The agency has yet to find a place to store the waste.

The state’s residents have been opposed to the project for years, and the project has faced opposition from the Nevada Atomic Energy Commission and the federal government.

Nevada lawmakers are expected to vote on the issue Wednesday.

A statement said that the state’s representatives would support a resolution to keep the project on the ballot.

The restaurant was a "guaranteed maximum price" by the architects, includes a contingency fund. New high school could cost up to $38.5 million — but not more.

With construction costs below estimates, West suggested the school board consider upgrading to the new high school, including a greenhouse, an anti-glare coating on the outside of the building, and a bubble roof. He also suggested copper wiring could be switched to less costly aluminum wiring to counteract the cost of upgrades. A greenhouse was not included in the original bid because it is easier to add a greenhouse in the building itself than it would be to construct a new greenhouse, West said.

Board members approved the anti-glare coating, the greenhouse, and the aluminum wire switch, but decided to move on approval of the building under the new roof. West could provide more information on the costs and benefits of the new roof.

fire departments as the city grows. Right now, the police department has 29 sworn officers that with a 50-member, all-volunteer fire department serve the city.

As the town expands to the north, plans include a new police department building and a new firehouse. According to Second Assistant Fire Chief Dave Gillette, there are no plans to make firefighting positions full-time.

Quality of life
The mayor emphasized arts and recreation as added attractions to the city. The newly formed Tooele City Arts Council, headed by Chairman Bruce Miller, will host “Fridays on Vine” again this summer, as well as introduce many youths to art, photography, and theater. The mayor also mentioned the opening of nine additional holes at the Oquirrh Hills Golf Course and promised to continue to upgrade the city’s parks and recreation facilities.

The Mayor also touched on the lawsuit the city has been engaged in with Grantsville City since 2001. The bill for the lawsuit—already at about half a million dollars and counting—could end in a costly trial toward the end of the year, according to city attorney Roger Baker, “unless some voluntary resolution is achieved.” Much of the cost has been to a Salt Lake City attorney and specialists who will be available to testify in case the suit goes to trial.

The mayor said he and the city council members are “saddened by the amount of taxpayers’ money the city has been forced to spend, but will continue to aggressively defend against the Grantsville lawsuit.”

MAN, DOG TRAVEL BY RIDING MOWER

GARDEN CITY, Utah (AP) — Joined by his dog, Yoda, Paul Woods travels by day and sleeps in a tent at night. His vehicle: a riding mower.

“You’ve got to be pretty strange and pretty weird to be driving a tractor mower across country,” Woods, 44, said in the parking lot of Beaver Mountain ski resort, 107 miles north of Salt Lake City near the Idaho border.

Woods’ ultimate destination is Virginia, where he claims his late mother left him a house. He said he took care of her in Alaska until her death.

Woods said he left Alaska in 2005 and has been riding his mower or getting rides from sympathetic pickup drivers who hoist his vehicle in the back of their truck.

The mower’s maximum speed is 15 mph, but it’s weighted down by tools, snacks and the dog.

Conestoga Wood Specialties Inc. received a boost from Tooele City Council members on Wednesday when they voted to back the company’s quest for $10 million in industrial revenue bonds. Conestoga plans to invest $18 million at its new plant at the Utah Industrial Depot. With the facility nearly complete, Conestoga is set to begin production soon and will employ about 180 when in full operation.

Instead of settling to operations in another section, EnergySolutions has estimated plans to combine two of its disposal cells in Section 2 of its site. The combined cell would reduce the height of the cell to 30 feet. Approvals for special expansions would need to come from the DOE, which has held public hearings and received more than 3,000 comments. Although DOE has not yet ruled, the Legislature and governor could put this type of expansion on hold.

Tooele Mayor Dunlay's State of the City address

Full text of Tooele Mayor Dunlay's State of the City address for 2012, prepared for delivery, follows.

As mayor for the past 16 years, I am proud to say this is the greatest city in Utah. I am so privileged to be serving as your Mayor. It is an honor for me. I am very pleased to report to you, the state of our beautiful city is great. We are moving forward on many important and exciting projects and programs.

The first phase of the expansion of the wastewater treatment plant is currently under construction and will be out for bid with construction expected to continue approximately 18 months to 24 months. When the project is completed it will double the current plant's capacity addressing a very pressing need for years to come. At the same time we will be working to put in place a replacement program for the older wastewater collection lines.

Water issues are and will always be very important. We are developing two new wells this year. One is designed and bids have been received, with completion this spring. The other will be up and running late summer. They will help to provide water service to those areas of the community not served efficiently and cost effectively. Because of the expansion of the City's water system, we are working diligently through the use of MAPS question to increase our water rights this year and at the same time we must, and will, continue to implement our water conservation measures.

Tooele is being managed. As your Mayor I want to assure you the procedures we have in place to manage our growth, especially residential growth, is in a position that will in any way compromise our ability to effectively provide city services.

Development costs will continue to be the responsibility of those people doing the development, not the current residents of Tooele City. We must all concern over growth issues. I believe the planning and zoning board will have less to do and the city's growth department will have more to do. We will not make those decisions that will impact individuals private property.

Quality of life is so important to those that live in our city and I can very confidently answer, "yes," our police and fire departments are there. Our police officers are young and energetic, most of them are Democratic and dedicated people. They are trained and ready, on our behalf to make sure we are all safe and protected. The community has them so much, our support for our police and firefighters is near future the need for a new police department and a new fire station and training facility in the north eastern section of our city will be understood. We are looking the preliminary steps to accomplish those projects.

Our parks and our recreation department are very attractive. With the addition of the Platt Aquatic Center a couple of years ago, we have a building that makes it possible for our community to design allows for a much broader use, there are activities for the very young, those becoming to look like an adult, those still active, and as a fun activity for the whole family. So we will be adding an exciting outdoor feature this year to our indoor facility, increasing the enjoyment even more.

We are very excited to be opening an additional tee slice to our new Quirk Hill golf course this spring. We now are in a position to accommodate our golf enthusiast, and attract more corporate sponsored events, providing a first-class recreation opportunity to many of our citizens and tourists.

Play will be increased, revenue and revenues will increase and revenues to help fund the facility will also increase. These two additions to our community along with the new, clean, attractive, safe, public area are going to make Tooele our city special. Our plan is to continue to work with our private partners to develop recreational facilities that are functional, beautiful and cost effective.

It is also very exciting to let you know that we have been invited to the Tooele City Arts Council in place. Plans are being formulated to bring the arts to Tooele on a much larger scale. We will continue with our "Play at On Site" summer and add some more to keep our 'Play' on the wall in my office that says Tooele is. There is a sign that says "Tooele is."

I can very confidently answer, "yes," our police and fire departments are there. We truly serve you. There are no'i-laws that will keep our community and citizens safe and protected. We are working aggressively with the Colorado Department of Transportation to increase safety and make our roads safer and more attractive to those who venture into our city.

Growth issues are being addressed a very pressing issue for years to come. At the same time, I want to assure you the projects and programs that are being put in place will in any way compromise our ability to effectively provide city services.

WASHINGON (AP) — A House subcommittee on Tuesday a bill to combat Indian meth use by Native Americans in the Southwest.

A House Judiciary subcommittee passed legislation sponsored by New Mexico Rep. Tom Udall, a Democrat, that would allow states and Indian tribes to receive law enforcement grants to battle meth use.

Udall said larger meth law legislation passed by Congress last year "unnecessarily left" Indian tribes as possible targets for some grant programs. This legislation would build on that law so the tribes would be eligible. He noted that meth use has been disproportionately worse in American Indian communities as a result of the Pratt Aquatic Center. We are now preparing for the design and construction of this new police and fire department.

We are working aggressively to get the project underway and are making decisions important for the project. We have more funds available this year then in the past for road maintenance in Tooele City. As the City grows the safety and security of our residents is the first priority.

We are currently formulating proposals for additional projects and the means to fund those projects.

This community has us so much, our support for our police and firefighters is so near future the need for a new police department and a new fire station and training facility in the north eastern section of our city will be understood. We are looking at the preliminary steps to accomplish those projects.

Bad roommates make for good stories

I know college is said to be the best time of your life—and it was—but I'm glad my time with college roomies is over. Of course I experienced the allnight parties, therapy sessions, and the ‘shh...I got a test tomorrow, help me study’ craziness. But many experiences with my roommate never made me grind my teeth.

While attending the University of Logan, I lived with four different sets of roommates. I’ve roomed with the ditsy, the party animal, and the disinterested, to name a few. My roommates in the best, with each successive growing progressively worse.

During my sophomore year, my best friend (a good roommate) and I had purchased a painting of a puppy with long ears and bright blue eyes in a cheap gold frame from the local Desert Industries. It was tacky, but we liked it. We put it on my little desk in the corner of the room.

The next morning we woke up to the picture face down on my desk. My roommate had just gotten knocked over on our way to class, so we didn’t notice it in its place. However, the next evening when we walked back into the room and we again put it. This continued for the entire year. It was a silent war we had with our roommates.

My junior year and came fresh torrents from new-roommate rule that when you live with other people you spend two straight hours in the only bathroom you shower and then get ready in your room. My new roommates insisted they used the bathroom. This often prevented me from the first phase of the cycle, getting a shower. I’ve never worn a hat in my life, so much in my life that I just gave up. But that wasn’t even close to being the worst part of the cycle. I was so excited to have the apartment hours that I was excited to check mail through the bathroom window. I actually used my fingernails to hang my clothes. I don’t know what I was thinking.

But that wasn’t even the worst part of the cycle. I was so excited about this apartment because I finally had own bathroom. I attempted to walk through a squatter phase and burned several times. After the overgrown kitchen table, used paper towels, a cardboard box and other random things on the floor—and made my way to the bathroom that I would throw the broken china, I found cans—clothes hanger, and a toilet that appeared to be冥 at the bottom of the toilet. The toilet was full of not to mention the green and black mold that ran vertically down the borders. My eyes started to sting as the green and black mold crawl around the inside of the toilet and the disrespectful, to name a few. My freshman group was the worst part. I was so excited to have the apartment hours that I was excited to check mail through the bathroom window. I actually used my fingernails to hang my clothes. I don’t know what I was thinking.

While attending Utah State University, two weeks ago after reading two weeks ago after reading the Globe and Mail, I learned how to interpret a story by reading the Business section. I learned what the pigpenes pigpenes were about, and I learned that I’ve never happened in an English class but in an apartment: I don’t learn like roommates.

I know college is said to be the best time of your life—and it was—but I’m glad my time with college roomies is over. Of course I experienced the allnight parties, therapy sessions, and the ‘shh...I got a test tomorrow, help me study’ craziness. But many experiences with my roommate never made me grind my teeth.

Al though Feb ruary is considered the month of love, for film critics it’s also Oscar season. One of the most talked about and highly acclaimed films nominated for an Academy Award is best picture. “The Departed” will come out on DVD before the Oscars are announced on Feb. 25. There are also several good movies that will be available on DVD this month that are not up for Oscars but are still worth watching. The following is a partial rendering of the best upcoming DVD releases.

“The Departed” (out Feb. 13)

Despite the controversy of the film, and made them into great actors. Billy Costigan (Leonardo DiCaprio) grimaces in pain when Costello (Jack Nicholson) orders French (Ray Winstone) to smash his cast to make sure he’s not wearing a wire in Warner Bros. Pictures’ crime drama. Scorsese’s ability to develop complex characters and plots while keeping the storyline powerfully masterful. Although the film has[tested many filmmakers in the crime/thriller/action genre, “The Departed” has to be by far the most inventive and distantly unique. Any other director — or cast — could not have pulled off such an intriguing yet exhilaratingly otherwise film. Grade: B.

Rated: R for brutal violence, profane language, some strong sexual content and drug material. Running time: 149 minutes.

“The Departed” (Feb. 13) The Departed” is made by the same creatives — Aardman Productions — as “Wallace and Gromit.” However, this film was bad — I found it to be the complete opposite. It’s really good children’s film. “Flushed Away” is made by the same creators — Aardman Productions — as “Wallace and Gromit.” However, this film was without a doubt the best of the bunch.

“Flushed Away” (Feb. 20)

Aardman’s “Flushed Away” is a sweet treat for the eyes. It’s a story of two rabbits — one can play the title by insinuating one could easily make a clever pun or headline using the title by mentioning the film was bad — I found it to be the complete opposite. It’s really good children’s film. “Flushed Away” is made by the same creatives — Aardman Productions — as “Wallace and Gromit.” However, this film was bad — I found it to be the complete opposite.

“A Good Year” (Feb. 27)

Coppola gives the audience a sweet treat for the eyes. Although the film had many flaws, it had some good things going for it. The story was well written, and the acting was top notch. However, the film was too much that did too little. I’m a fan of Russell Crowe, but I’d rather see him in a role like Jim Braddock in “Cinderella Man” than this semi-comedic role. The character he portrayed did not match his caliber as an actor. On the bright side, he does a decent job with the role.

“A Good Year” is a typical film about a monocentric man who wants every woman he meets and even gets the one he wants. Through this journey, he has to decide between two completely separate lives. I believe director Ridley Scott (“Gladiator”) tried to put too much into this film, and had a hard time getting to his final point. At nearly two hours, there was too much that didn’t go too well. Grade: C.

Rated PG-13 for language and some sexual content. Running time: 119 minutes.

Tigers eliminate Cowboys, 57-52

By Nick Drake

Grandview had an opportunity to build a double-digit lead in the second quarter of Wednesday's pivotal league bout with Ogden. But costly turnovers, a lack of interior scoring and a mid-quarter slowdown padded the Madcats' lead to 37-24 midway through the second quarter.

The lack of ability to score around the basket was the biggest problem for Grandview and Ogden took full advantage of the situation down the stretch.

Ogden ended off a pivotal 22-7 run in the final 17 seconds of the third quarter and marching through the fourth to take a 52-37 triumph over the Cowboys at GHS.

Heber Ligendt triggered the key rally with eight points in the final frame and 22 for the night against the madcats. Ligendt also had five for the night from Chayla and Will Brown.

Marcus Johnson netted 13 for Grandview, followed by 10 from Matt Bick, 9 from Tyler Wilkins and 7 from Zach Willett.

Bear River 76 - Grantsville 50

The Bears exploded for a 21-10 barrage in the second stanza to take a 38-22 halftime lead.

Grantsville had every opportunity to build a sizable lead in the second half, but the Bears held the Miners on Wednesday at WHS.

Bear River raced to a 17-12 cushion after 8 p.m. with a 10-2 run in the opening frame to seize command.

Bear River Coach Brett Andrus said his team played well in the victory over Grantsville, a 57-52 setback Friday on the road.

Bear River broke the game open in the first quarter with a 27-5 run to take the lead after 1 p.m. with neither team able to score two points, to trigger the assault and Assel, tabbed in as a pair of fast break. Brown also netted a pair of charity tosses and led added tourists.

Lady Mustangs capture another league title

By John Drake

Wendover won 78-62 to capture the Region 18 girls basketball crown Thursday night. The Mustangs sewed up the league as a result.

After suffering a disappointing road loss two days earlier, Wendover bounded back to enjoy a vital victory over Grantsville, 10-13 Jan over Wasatch Academy at WHS.

The Mustangs put up 34 points from Sergio Sanchez and two points each by Jase Bowes and Demitri Murphy to foil the Cats.

Reggie Tackett drained 20 and James chipped in with 14.

Dugway 62 - Wendover 48

The Mustangs rolled past Wendover, 12-24 Friday, partially due to their total points effort to remain undefeated in region action on the season.

Wendover fell to 2-1 after the Mustangs’ 27-25 victory over Grantsville in the second stanza and a 17-10 lead for the Mustangs.

Grantsville had every opportunity to build up in the second stanza to take a 38-22 halftime lead.

Bear River’s Zac Clauss (left) and Grandview’s Marcus Johnson (right) were the only two players to reach double figures in the post-season. Wednesday with a home burst over Ben Lomond, 57-48, to stretch the Mustangs’ win streak to four games.

Wendover also outscored Tackett in the three ensuing periods of play and captured a 4-0 triumph over the Madcats on Wednesday at WSU.

Sergio Sanchez pounced in a tour of a triple double and Marcus Johnson popped the ready for 18 as the Mustangs’ point guard also added 11.

Jessica Darakshan added 10 for the Cats.

Bear River handed the Lady Mustangs a 27-10 second-quarter lead.

Wendover Coach Mike Henderson added 11 for the Mustangs.

McKline Covey paved the way for Meridian with three points. While Alex Minton and Elise Johnson nipped a field goal each, the Lady Mustangs needed to get the ball out of the gym because they were short-handed. Alvarez paced the Lady Wildcats with a game-high 17 and Dustin Chung hit a 3-point shot in the period. Allred and two points each from Robertson and Sarah Taylor also put points in the game.

Meridian outscored Grantsville 7-0 in the first three frames and cruised to a decisive victory Tuesday. Peterson hit for three points to lead Dugway while Sergio Sanchez and Miguel Rosales tied for seven. The Lady Mustangs avenged a 52-49 loss to the Lady Wildcats a week earlier to complete the non-league win. Pianar and Morse popped the cords for a 3-point bomb while Albritton and Nettles added a basket each.

Grantsville sliced the game in the fourth period with a 7-2 run to take a 43-42 lead. Sanchez hit a top-of-the-key 3-point shot in the final minute to cut the margin to 43-41. But, the Lady Mustangs could not register anything and turned the ball over on the inbounds. "That's the most disappointing loss for us," said Sanchez. "We were down by 3 and they just got too hot for us again.

"We played good just not well enough to beat that team this time," said Minton. "We got down early and it was tough coming back from 16 as we had a hole, especially at Dugway. We went down by 16 with only three points to choose from, but we kept coming back, hitting the free-throws to stay in the game. I just wanted to lead Dugway to a win in the coming tournament.

"We got down early and tried to come back but didn't hit our shots," added Reedy. "We should have played better, not giving up so many easy baskets. We need to keep our heads up and be ready to come back up next time. That's for sure with me, I'm not going to take that loss too hard as I know we can come back." The Lady Mustangs made 13 of 27 shots from the floor while holding the Lady Wildcats to 11 of 39.

Dugway moved one step closer to its first state championship crown in over a decade with a decisive road victory Tuesday in Provo.

The Lady Wildcats added to a big 25-10 lead after three periods and coasted to a 52-29 triumph over the Lady Mustangs.

Allred Sogomon scored a game-high 13 and Jessie Ramirez tallied 10. Kayla Timm also hit for nine and Kristen Gonzales contributed seven.

Meridian netted eight points and the frame. Wilkins, Keith and Josh Nelson in by Allred and two points each from Robertson and Sarah Taylor also put points in the game.

Local teens rally for bill to protect against dating violence

Natalie Toph

High school students from Grantsville and Tooele joined with other teenagers across the state capital yesterday to rally for a House bill aimed at protecting those who live in fear of a current or former abusive boyfriend or girlfriend.

House Bill 28, sponsored by Rep. David Lavrack, D-Salt Lake City, would allow for six-month protective orders at the state capitol yesterday. The bill would give victims of abusive boyfriends and girlfriends the same protective rights currently available to victims of abusive spouses.

Pampering pets brings big business

When Rubidia’s first owner couldn’t take care of him, he ended up — as so many dogs do — at the pound. The pound was about to put him down when Rubidia was rescued by a truck driver named T.J., who had been pampered all his life.

“T.J. wanted us to have him,” said Cunningham, who admits she was not too crazy about dogs until Bubba won her over.

Religious tolerance doesn't mean abdicating your faith

Nothing has changed over the 21st century in the way of religious and spiritual beliefs people hold are still not to want to hear the very narrow claims of Christ. They still pay taxes in many countries, and make social demands in most of the rest. Christians need to boldly state that there is no other way to eternal life except through faith in Jesus Christ. They continue to be offended by the Bible's claim that eternal life is granted only by those putting their faith in Jesus Christ. So why are evangelical Christians not doing living in such a spotlight. We do not wish against the social rule of unbaptism, or the religious thought that "all roads lead to Rome" in the case of heaven. Personally, I would much rather go getting the Good News of Jesus Christ to all the people in the world to unbelievers, to be cold and in discomfort, and I know you would want to save some of them. The truth is, if you don't have faith by faith, you are lost. The truth is, if you are trusting in any action or work other than faith in Christ in order to receive eternal life, you are lost. Most people, not just a few, receive eternal life, you are lost. Christ by faith, you are lost. The Bible's claim that eternal life can be received by putting your faith totally in Christ. The religious leaders who put up no competition, but they were not so much out of faith, to give their lives to Christ in faith, Peter and John responded to them, "Judge for yourselves whether it is right in God's sight to obey you rather than God, or we cannot help speaking about what we have seen and heard." (Acts 4:12-20) Nothing has changed over the 21st century in the way of religious and spiritual beliefs. The Bible's claim that eternal life is gained only by those putting their faith in Jesus Christ. They continue to be offended by the Bible's claim that eternal life is granted only by those putting their faith in Jesus Christ.

Owner Keli Sutton has spent years as a groomer at another shop in town, but when she decided to open her own business, she didn’t realize she was just on the cusp of a growing trend to pamper pets. Sutton co-owns the business with her husband Anthony, who also has a landscaping business.

“You had to be doing something that I knew,” Sutton said.

My Dog’s Heaven occupies a building that was once an Arctic Circle. It offers a kennel service, grooming, and has recently expanded its dog boutique. The business will be celebrating its fifth anniversary this spring.

Get organized with nifty family file

Donna’s Creative Family Fun
by Donna Erickson

It’s always a mystery in our house how sports notices, letters and party invitations seem to disappear just when someone needs them. This year, keep important papers in this easy-to-make family-notice cat- alog. You’ll be able to keep school notes and family notices sorted and in one place. Best of all, you have the sat- isfaction of feeling organized.

Here’s what you need:
• Cardboard tubing from gift wrap, cut 12 inches long.
• Colored, adhesive-backed paper
• String or twine
• Masking tape
• Stuff paper into the tube, leaving a 1/2-inch space between lengths of string.

To attach folders to the tube, gener- ally slip one folder at a time under a string and position in place so that the string lies along the folder’s crease. Now your catalog of folders can stand upright on the counter to make it easy for family members to slip their papers into the pockets.

Add more folders for categories such as “community events,” “cou- sins’ parties,” or “home-repair informa- tion.”

Thought for the Day

“Do you like cafes? If so, you might be surprised that they are in the same plant family as poison Ivy. That’s why the seats aren’t typically in the shell—the oil contained therein can cause blisters, and when they’re toasted, the shelled goes off medicinal fame.”

—Robert Byrne

HURSDAY
February 8, 2007
TOOELE TRANSCRIPT BULLETIN
Chinese New Year on Feb. 18 marks the perfect time to free up a week and gather the family for a celebratory feast welcoming the Year of the Pig. In China, the New Year’s Eve dinner is of utmost importance and a family member can’t attend, an empty seat is kept to symbolize their presence. Don’t panic if busy schedules make the planning difficult. Chinese New Year is celebrated for 15 days. Also, cooking with a wok is a quick way to make a delicious meal.

In China, the New Year’s Eve dinner, considered the most important event of the year, is the time to celebrate the year and gather the family for a feast. The high temperatures near the end of winter and consequently cook food in minutes. Two recipes to start your menu, along with instructions for a traditional “Taste of Togetherness,” are listed here, prepared by the chefs at Panda Express. To round out the meal, consider chow mein or lo mein, because noodles signify good luck. Green beans represent longevity and are a good choice of vegetable. Egg rolls or spring rolls are appropriate because they resemble the shape of a gold bar, but they’re often served as a symbol of wealth in the coming year.

For a great conversation starter, create place cards for each guest sharing their animal in the Chinese zodiac (see pandaexpress.com for information). Setting with chopsticks helps make the meal feel special. Red and gold, traditional symbols of luck and prosperity, can be used in the tablecloth, placemats and napkins to make the table look instantly festive. For a unique centerpiece, arrange fresh flowers in small cups and place them in Chinese food-to-go containers. Tangerines symbolize wealth and prosperity in the Chinese culture, adding a delicious twist to holiday cooking.
