The location of the proposed site for the new prison was not released. In all, 26 sites considered by the commission to screen sites.

The top six sites will now move on to another review, according to Stevenson. "The commission will look at environmental concerns and other factors that might make the site unsuitable for development," he said. "We have to look at all the factors before we can make a decision on where the prison will be located." The commission will consider potential prison sites at its Dec. 22 meeting. The commission will release the location of the proposed site for the new prison at 2 p.m. Monday, Dec. 22. It will also be available on the Tooele County Commission website.

The meeting did not include a discussion of the prison sites, according to Stevenson. The commission will resume the discussion of the prison sites at its Dec. 22 meeting. The commission will release the location of the proposed site for the new prison at 2 p.m. Monday, Dec. 22. It will also be available on the Tooele County Commission website.

Miller property possible new prison location

By Tim Miller

It ain't over 'til the fat lady sings.

There are a lot of sites in the Tooele Valley that could be used as potential prison sites, according to Dennis Dunlavy, lead consultant assisting with the site selection process. If selected as the site for the prison, the Tooele County property must meet several criteria, including land use, accessibility, and environmental concerns.

"The property is isolated with limited access for emergency vehicles," Dunlavy said.

The prison relocation commission announced that the property was off the list of potential prison sites earlier this week. However, the county is back on the list, according to Dunlavy.

"I think we need to take a good look at the sites," he said. "We should look at the best choice." The county is back on the list because it has not been eliminated from consideration.

The prison relocation commission will consider potential prison sites at its Dec. 22 meeting. The commission will announce the location of the proposed site for the new prison at 2 p.m. Monday, Dec. 22. It will also be available on the Tooele County Commission website.

Cops will serve dinners to raise Christmas funds for kids

By Lisa Chrestensen

Local law enforcement officers will trade in their badges for aprons soon next week to bring Christmas to kids in need.

The annual ‘Tip a Cop’ will be held Dec. 9 and Dec. 11 at two local restaurants where members of local law enforcement will be vowing for a meal and donations all day long. The money raised will help feed those in need for the holidays.

For needy children in the area, the Department said it is very important that they are able to eat for Christmas.

The heart-breaking thing is that, at least the kid I went with last year spent all his money on his family,” Moody said. He noted that the kids and many of the other young offenders, had to be persuaded to buy something for themselves for Christmas. “This was the highlight of my career, helping with that last year,” he said.

Though 18 children were taken along for the ride last year, Moody said, and officers hope to be able to talk about that same number this year. The event only helps the kids in tough situations, but those are office in a different light. Moody said that this event is important because many of the children come from homes where public services have failed them.

“The event also gives the different local agencies a more light-hearted opportunity to work together. The biggest thing is seeing how the agencies come together and Moody said. “We work together when there are issues, but this is a more positive environment.’”

Officers from all local law enforcement agencies worked to bring this to reality. They include Adult Probation and Parole, Children’s Justice Center, Department of Family Services, Grantsville Police Department, Stockton Police Department, Tooele Police Department, Tooele County Sheriff’s Office and Utah Highway Patrol.

“When we work together across the community, the better,” he said.

Grantsville hopes to start a tradition with a ‘Christmas Carol’

By Emma Persad

After hosting several successful plays this year, the Old Grantsville Church Dinner Theatre hopes to close its first season by bringing into the world the life and adventures of Charles Dickens in A Christmas Carol.

The Grantsville production of the tale of Tim Tim and Homeless Scrooge will feature local performing talents from the theatrical staples, Tom Starn and Bob Lichtenberg.

Starn, who will play the Ghost of Christmas Past, has performed across the country and has appeared in the State Center Theatre’s production of ‘A Christmas Carol’ in the past.

Before moving to Utah, Starn performed productions in the Bay Area for nearly 30 years. Although he is more than 80 years old, Starn still sings a range from low to high A flat, according to Macae Wanberg, the Grainsville Church Dinner Theatre’s director.

Johnson, likewise, has performed in Hawaii’s Valley and Washing Trout productions for decades, according to Starn. The two have played parts in ‘A Christmas Carol’ before, and both will be his first show at the play’s lead role, Scrooge himself.

‘It’s been a real honor to work with these two old-gens, because they’re real veterans of theatre in Tooele County. They’ve been good to work with,” Moody said.

Tickets are already on sale and will be served on a first come, first served basis. Tickets can be purchased in person from the theatre or online at www.oldgrantsvil-lechurchdinnertheater.com, or call 435-589-6852.

The Old Grantsville Church Dinner Theatre is located at 287 W Clark Street.

A ‘Christmas Carol’ at The Old Grantsville Church Dinner Theatre will open this Friday, Dec. 6 at 6:30 p.m. Additional evening performances will take place on Dec. 8, 9, 12 and 15. There will also be a matinee performance on Dec. 13 at 1 p.m.

All reservations are required, those with an allergy for dairy, nuts, etc. There are no refunds, but those with tickets will have the option to resell the tickets online or on social networks for more. severe, but may not be as severe as previous, according to the national Climate Prediction Center. That trend is expected to continue into the first few months of 2013. ‘We do have some good storm systems coming through so far this month,’ Harrison said. ‘It could go either way still, with it being a good water season or not. So we won’t say.’

Oct. marked the start of the 2012-13 water year which will conclude next Sept. 30.

application for a solid waste permit was filed at the DEQ today. According to Koenig, said she had been advised it could take 12-18 months for the state to issue those permits.

As of that day, she said Stericycle is looking at a 2017 groundbreaking in Tooele said Stericycle is looking at the process of submitting applications for those permits.

Koenig said she had been advised it could take 12-18 months for the state to issue those permits.

Meanwhile, the Utah Department of Environmental Quality is wrapping up an investigation into Stericycle. The DEQ launched an investigation the summer after an anonymous whistleblower posted a video online that alleged Stericycle supervisors regularly instructed employees to take shortcuts that would have violated the company’s operating permits. The DEQ announced today that the preliminary results of that investigation found no evidence to substantiate the claims.

You. When viewed from Vernon the Sheeprock appear hazy and treed. There are however, some great views of Sheeprock Mountains south of Vernon. It’s a perfect hike for remote, seldom-visited places, this one won’t disappoint.

There are a few ways to reach the Sheeprock Mountains from Tooele County.

The shortest and usually easiest is to drive east from Tooele on Highway 120 for 10 miles and then south on Rattlesnake Canyon Road. If you park in the suggested park spot, hike up the ridge to the summit of sub peak 9,167 feet to the summit of Black Crook Peak.

To understand the terrain, I always hike to the highest summit before you. I’m not sure what the coloration in this area is, but I’m sure there is a colorful tale that explains why in some areas it is red, in others light yellow, and then again — and made sure that the individual trees in this area have a height of 20-30 feet where they grow between the rock out and form a small canopy. There is a small remote station that flows through the area and is a pleasant place to hike. The terrain on foot and follow the near black. Crook Peak.

got to keep that up the whole game," Lawrence said. "We can't let them score however many they did in the second half. We've got to keep it under 20 each half. In the first half, we came out ready to put a beating on them. In the second half, we came out a little too content. We've got to keep the same intensity all of the time.

"Our schedule is what it is because we want to come out and compete against some bigger guys," Faunus said. "We want to get that experience. Right now, the confidence level is high. It's a good thing for the morale and their minds, but now we're going to see where this team is at when we go home for the first game on Friday. We'll see how we handle another 5A team coming in, they play well together. That's something from each game, I think that's the most important thing."

Club members learn leadership, business skills

While two high school-aged students set up a Dropbox account Tuesday night, two more worked on designs for a web site. Another two delved into grant writing, and the remaining six or so members of the Tooele FIRST Robotics club gathered around a conglomeration of wheels, wires and metal with a motor.
The club members were absorbed in building a robot, but they were also involved in the business and front aspects. FIRST (For Inspiration and Recognition of Science and Technology) is as much about cooperation, leadership and volunteerism as it is about science, technology, engineering and math.

“Club members have to know more than just how to make a robot,” said Tooele County resident Bonnie Houze, who helped start the local chapter for her sons four years ago.

Tooele FIRST Robotics Competition Team 4348, also called Bonneville Bots, is run by the student participants as much as possible. Team members come from all over the Tooele Valley.

“Team members fill specific roles, such as safety lead, web lead and electrical lead,” Houze said. “We teach them how to run the team as a business.”

Professional adults volunteer as mentors who teach concepts, then step back to allow team members decide how to apply the concepts. “They make the main calls,” Houze said.

The gardening season is over or is it?

For most of us homeowners and hobbyist gardeners, the season of garden activity is done. It was a great long season that, from planting to harvesting provided some of the best food of the year, but the time has come for us to enjoy and appreciate the produce that we have grown during the season. However, the gardening season is not over, and there still are ways for us to extend the season and get produce when the commercial market has run out.

For example, there are several ways to extend the gardening season. One of the most popular ways is to grow cold-hardy vegetables such as spinach, kale, and other leafy greens in a high tunnel or a greenhouse. These crops can be grown throughout the winter months, providing a steady supply of fresh produce.

Another way to extend the gardening season is to grow cold-hardy vegetables such as potatoes, carrots, and beets in a high tunnel or a greenhouse. These crops can be grown throughout the winter months, providing a steady supply of fresh produce.

In addition to these vegetables, there are many other ways to extend the gardening season. One of the most popular ways is to grow fresh herbs such as oregano, basil, and thyme in a high tunnel or a greenhouse. These herbs can be grown throughout the winter months, providing a steady supply of fresh produce.

In Yosemite’s Notification Center gets new look with new features Yosemite’s Notification Center now actually becomes the center of Yosemite, because you can actually see all your notifications and the contents of the notifications side by side. This is a great feature that actually makes Yosemite’s Notification Center more useful and more accessible. In this article, we’ll take a look at Yosemite’s Notification Center and how it works.

What is Yosemite’s Notification Center?

Yosemite’s Notification Center is a new feature that was introduced in Yosemite 10.1. It allows you to view all your notifications in one place, instead of having to open each app and check for new notifications. This makes it much easier to keep track of all your notifications.

How does Yosemite’s Notification Center work?

When you open Yosemite’s Notification Center, you’ll see a list of all the notifications that you’ve received. You can expand each notification to see the full content, or you can dismiss it by clicking the red “X” button.

Benefits of Yosemite’s Notification Center

- Yosemite’s Notification Center is a great way to keep track of all your notifications in one place.
- It allows you to dismiss notifications quickly, so you can focus on what’s most important.
- It saves you time by not having to open each app and check for new notifications.

How to customize Yosemite’s Notification Center

You can customize Yosemite’s Notification Center by choosing which notifications you want to see and how you want them to look. To do this, go to Yosemite’s System Preferences and choose “Notifications.” From there, you can turn notifications on or off, and you can choose which notifications you want to display.

Conclusion

Yosemite’s Notification Center is a great new feature that makes it much easier to keep track of all your notifications. With this new feature, you can quickly see all your notifications in one place, and you can customize the way they look to suit your needs. If you’re using Yosemite, we highly recommend that you take a look at Yosemite’s Notification Center and see how it works for you.
What can you learn from the ‘Oracle of Omaha’?

Warren Buffett, the ‘Oracle of Omaha,’’ is considered one of the most successful investors in history. Yet while the investment world may seem complex, Mr. Buffett’s advice is actually pretty straightforward. Here are some of his famous quotes, along with some suggestions on putting them to use.

“Whether we’re talking about stocks or works of art, like buying a quality merchandise when it is marked down. “Especially, this means you should look for good investment vehicles whose price may have been dropped. “A stock, market tends to ding down many stocks—even those with strong fundamentals and favorable prospects. These stocks might then be considered ‘bargains.’ “One way to determine whether a stock is ‘overpriced’ or ‘cheap’ is by looking at its price-to-earnings ratio (P/E). For example, if Company A’s stock has a P/E of 20 and earnings per share of $2, then it is a P/E of 10. On the other hand, if Company B has the same share price of $20, but earnings per share of $4, then its P/E would be 10. It would be a better investment opportunity than Company A.” “Be aware, though, that earnings per share are not a measure of when you are comparing companies in the same industry.

Time

“Time is the wonderful enemy, the enemy of institutions. “Prepare to own quality stocks for the long-term, time, your confidence may be rewards. On the other hand, if an investment is not of high quality, it is likely to be punished over the years. “If investors insist on trying to time their participation in equities, they should try to be patient when others are greedy, and greedy only when others are fearful. “Trying to ‘time’ the market is the equivalent of, when prices are low and sell when prices are high — it is infallible. Too many people do just the opposite. They try not to lose their minds by selling, when the market is down and then creative the ‘fire sale’ investment whose price may already be too high as you’re going up. Mr. Buffett clearly is not in favor of a market timing approach, and those who try to do it, he says, are probably better off by going against the crowd. Keep in mind, though, that even when holding investments returns no one is trying to Sack the market, investing in equities does involve, indeed, a potential loss of principal. “When we own portions of outstanding businesses with outstanding management, our favorite holding period is forever.” “When you sell good investments! Never, according to Mr. Buffett, and while this ruthless holding period may not serve everyone, it is the most successful way of investing. “The longer you keep a stock, the more likely it is that over time, you may no when you do sell your investments are underpriced or over- priced and speculation, which is by definition value, becomes beneficial rather than detrimental. “None of the winners made significant or doses of ‘effortless money.’

The lesson here is an inviolable, a special rule, a long-term. The market can increase under your watch, but it may also the you are wise to strike balance —

For the investor, it is very difficult to see that your investments are underpriced.

“...investors who you may want to consider Mr. Buffett’s ideas about all, they’ve never sold it —

It is designed to be implemented into schools in the form of STEPS Squads. HOPE stands for Bold On: Enhancing Caring. The HOPE5 STEPS Squad is a school-based peer-to-peer, youth, and community cooperative program for teen suicide prevention organized by a community cooperative. The program is for 15 percent of all schools when a community announces STEPS HOPE5 and an in-store fundraiser will be held on Friday, Dec. 12.

Each year, smokers are warned signs, creating positive relationships within the school. To prevent suicide, educators may be, as well as to promote awareness and increase support for the school and community. Be a Safe Passenger!

Using a car seat correctly prevents injury and helps keep children safe. Keep your child in a forward-facing seat until they reach 40 to 65 pounds or the height restriction of the seat. Use booster seats until they are 4 feet 9 inches tall and are between 8 and 12 years of age. When your child reaches those limits, they can use lap and shoulder belts that fit properly and should remain in the back seat.

What’s the Same?
Find what each kid has in common with the others in the same row, across, up and down, and diagonally. (Hint: In the first row across, they all have caps.) Then look to see which kid does not have their seatbelt fastened correctly.

Are you a safe passenger?
Take this quiz and find out.

1. Why wear a seatbelt?
   a. It’s a fashion accessory.
   b. It hurts to sit on it.
   c. It protects you in a crash.

2. Booster seats are for:
   a. astronauts.
   b. hockey fans.
   c. kids until they reach 4’9”.

3. Booster seats are great because:
   a. you ride high and can see out of the window.
   b. you ride high, so the belt doesn’t poke your neck.
   c. all of the above.

4. To sit in the front seat, you should be at least:
   a. 103 years old.
   b. 25 years old.
   c. 13 years old.

5. Wear your seatbelt:
   a. under your arm or behind your back.
   b. loose so you can move freely.
   c. snugly across the shoulder and chest, belt low on your hips.

6. In someone else’s car, should you ask for help if the seatbelt doesn’t fit right?
   a. No. It’s rude.
   b. No. They think you’re dumb.
   c. Yes. Otherwise, you could be seriously injured.

Last Tuesday, our class read an article in the newspaper about the importance of child safety booster seats. In cars, the article said that 80-90% of kids who should be in child safety booster seats are not. Children who are 4’9” and under should be using these seats instead of adult safety belts when traveling.
Bridgeman, a network engineer against other teams from all over the world,” said Charles Bridgeman, a network engineer counseling for the Bots. “They are scared not only on whether their robots can do the tasks but also on things like team safety and the design of their robot.”

Bonneville Bots currently meets on Tuesday and Thursday evenings. After the kickoff and until the competition, many of the participants will meet at least three times a week, and the club itself will be open five days a week to accommodate team member schedules.

Most of the dozen or so team members are new. Only one student participated in the local open to the competition in North Carolina last year, where he associated with a robotics team from the Netherlands.

“Can’t wait to get into the competition,” said Bridgeman.

For that fee, Bonneville Bots will get the parts they need to build a robot as well as the specific tasks their robot should be able to perform.

Money for traveling, work space, heating, electricity and shipping has to be raised, too.

It isn’t cheap.

Colebaugh put 220 hours of work into the competition with his previous team. “I plan on doing the same thing,” he said of the upcoming competition. “It isn’t cheap. It takes $5,000 just to get into the competition.”

It’s cookie time

Of all the traditional baked confections we associate with the holidays, probably none is more popular than the cookie. During the holiday season, old recipes are pulled out—or special confections are created—for a swapping and heavenly array of cookies in all sizes, shapes, colors and flavors. From sugar cookies to chocolate chip cookies, and the many creative recipes in between, there is nothing quite as delicious as freshly baked Christmas treats.

Cookie decorating was a German invention. The Christmas Cookie took root in America when it was brought here by the Europeans who settled here. Christmas cookie recipes have been around the world and in the United States, it will take many more years to realize just how many cookie recipes from all over the globe have evolved from the cookie. As America grew, so did immigration, and neighbors. Each family brought their own family traditions, but those of a vast culinary history. From the Dutch, to the Alps and those of British, to the Jewish, and many more, cookies made by soaking fireplace ashes, “pea ash,” a leavening agent for a “Christmas Cookey” can start with a basic recipe and flavors from bacon to candy corn.

It is believed that hundreds of years ago, sugar cookies originated with the process of testing a cake recipe. Small drops of batter were baked to check for flavor and consistency. Sugar cookies began life in ancient times as slightly sweetened roundbread. From these cookies, we have evolved into one of our favorite holiday traditions. Many other cookies recipes from around the world have evolved from these simple ingredients. Bake for another 1 to 2 minutes or until the cookies are golden brown and are slightly soft in the center. Let cool at room temperature. Make 45 cookies (1 1/2 inch in diameter) of each flavor.
