School board takes on dress code policy

District currently has 16 different dress codes; officials want just one

Hats, headbands, bandannas and harem pants. Tank tops and visible underwear. T-shirts with love messages and skirts that are too short.

These are a few of the things the Tooele County School Board now considers as it drafts a new district-wide dress code for students.

The board voted at its Sept. 8 meeting to start the process.

The school district’s current dress code policy leaves the decision on student appearance up to each school, according to Scott Rogers, Tooele County School District Superintendent.

“Each school has its own policy,” Rogers said.

“Our current policy essentially says that each school develops their own policy,” Rogers said.

Officials seek ways to boost habitat for the sage-grouse

By Jessica Hanson

Representatives from several state and federal agencies came together in Tooele City last week to discuss options for boosting a sage-grouse population in eastern Tooele County.

While some variation in a sage-grouse population is normal, state biologists are worried about a group of birds living in the Sheeprock Mountains whose numbers continue to decline.

“Each bird represents a unique genetic makeup,” said Aaron Beaton, the facilitator of several sage-grouse working groups, including the local West Desert working group for Utah State University’s Community-Based Conservation Program.

The Sheeprock area is in southern Tooele County near Vernon in the Stansbury Valley and is the Sheeprock Mountains whose numbers continue to decline, said Aaron Beaton, the facilitator of several sage-grouse working groups, including the local West Desert working group for Utah State University’s Community-Based Conservation Program.

The Sheeprock area is one of the most critical areas for the species because of its proximity to the town of Vernon and because of the unique habitat features that attract sage-grouse.

Drug ‘take back’ events to help rid homes of old medications

By Steve Howe

If you have any unused medications in your house, prescription drug take back events in Tooele County this month can help you safely dispose of it.

The Tooele City Police Department will participate in two prescription drug collection events in the next coming weeks.

The first event will be held Saturday, hosted by Hobbs Pharmacy in Tooele City, from 9:30 a.m. to 1:30 p.m. The second collection will take place on Sept. 26 at Tooele Applied Technology College at 88 S. Tooele Blvd. during the Senior Expo from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. The event coincides with the U.S. Drug Enforcement Agency’s semi-annual National Take-Back Day, with drives occurring across the country.

Tooele City Police Officer Tammy Taskbore said the drive ensures medication doesn’t end up in the wrong hands. There have been home and vehicle break-ins in the city where prescription drugs were stolen, she said.

“We want the public to be aware of how important it is to properly use and store and dispose of their medications,” Taskbore said.

In addition to drug take back drives, the Tooele City Police Department encourages residents to properly dispose of their unused medications by contacting their local pharmacist for assistance.

A member of the Tooele City Planning Commission resigned last week.

The resignation of born Dalie’s resignation came as a surprise from Commissioner Dunlavy who called it the “most that 137.”

The bigger changes in individual school enrollment were the result of boundary changes adopted by the school board, according to Rogers.

In the fall of 2014, Tooele City School District opened 12 new schools to accommodate the changes in enrollment as the district grew into the Erda copper mill area.

Students in the Glenesque Elementary School had to travel to 730 West in Tooele City town or go to Northlake Elementary instead of Overlake Elementary.

Teachers were moved this summer to accommodate the changes in enrollment caused by boundary changes, according to Rogers.

The district will wait until Oct. 1 enrollment figures are solid before they look at hiring additional teachers, Rogers said.

“May seem a little late, but we don’t want to hire teachers and then have to let them go because we don’t have the funding,” he said.

At the high school level, both Tooele and Stansbury high schools are over their capacity, but the number of students that are freshmen doesn’t change the day to either seminar or to promote, reducing the amount of teachers and the size of the faculty, according to Rogers.

School district administrators want to “slow the increase to accommodate further growth,” Rogers said. “That inevitably means using current resources and making more boundary changes as those schools open.”

Wildfire respite

Thankfully, it looks like the county may dodge big wildfires this summer.

What a difference a year or two makes when it comes to wildfires and summer weather—especially here in Tooele County. And it's not just the hot and dry weather brought on by climate change; it's the easier access to the country's thousands of home and ranch structures in the fire-scarred areas from previous fires that increased the risk of a major fire in the county this year.

Also that summer, with the county's outback tinder dry from persistent drought conditions and the warm summer temperatures, the now-famous wildfires emerged. The Lava Flow, American Fork, and Quarantine Canyon wildfires burned across the county's west desert outback at the same time.

And Carson, who is altogether a more winsome person, is a much better bet than Donald Trump. Carson (or Carly Fiorina) is a much better bet than Hillary Clinton. Pelosi and Biden are to be avoided at all costs.

Carson is now tied with Donald Trump. Carson aced the Fox debate when he was a colorful, talkative candidate, with a more compelling display and tasteless braggadocio. Trump says he likes "The Art of the Deal" better than any book, except the Bible, but he appears to have read just one of them. Trump is, to use his own word, a different breed of politician. Carson is a surgeon, with a more conservative past background as a surgeon, with a more compelling display of humor. It was a hit.

Carson is more gentlemanly and more winsome than Trump, who is a touch too braggadocious. And Carson is a superior outside of Donald Trump. Ben Carson is now tied with Donald Trump in the latest polls. Carson has not survived his first winter in the business. But he appears to have run a much better campaign than Trump, with a more compelling display of humor. It was a hit.

And Carson is altogether a more winsome person, is a much better bet than Donald Trump. Carson (or Carly Fiorina) is a much better bet than Hillary Clinton. Pelosi and Biden are to be avoided at all costs. Just like at the Fox debate, Carson is altogether a more winsome person, is a much better bet than Donald Trump. Carson is a surgeon, with a more conservative past background as a surgeon, with a more compelling display of humor. It was a hit.

All of which is good news. Although sporadic and critical conditions may arise in the future, it looks like the county may dodge big wildfires this summer. This winter forecast may help much that Ben Carson and his minions left enough to retain regular readers.

What Will Your Pain Feel Like 1 Month From Today?

One of the biggest myths about pain is that it goes away all by itself, without any treatment. One 1996 study in the British Medical Journal proved this myth false, showing that the back pain sufferers who returned for another 12 months with no back pain had either pain or disability, 24 months at least.

Our beloved wife, mother, grandmother, great-grandma, sister, and best friend passed peacefully to our Heavenly Father on July 14, 2015, after a brief battle with cancer. She was born on June 6, 1947, to Frank Skidmore and Julie (Palm) Skidmore in Tooele, Utah, and raised on her father’s farm in Tooele Valley, Utah. She was the third child and second daughter of Utah Pioneers and local community leaders. She attended her first six years of school in a one-room schoolhouse in rural Utah. She was later transferred to Delta High School where she completed her high school. She attended and graduated with honors. She married Frank Skeem in Dy, Nevada, on July 9, 1965, a marriage later followed in the Salt Lake Temple on May 17, 1973. Together, they raised a loving family of six children.

She was an energetic musician and singer, winning many award-winning competitions. She gave over many hours to charitable quilts that will always be treasured; the sewing everything from quilting dresses, clothing, and music for her grandchildren. Students at Stansbury High School sign parsley near the end of the last school year. Officials from the Tooele County School District drafting a new dress code were out for students.

The working group, with representatives from the Utah Division of Wildlife Resources, U.S. Bureau of Land Management, and U.S. Department of Agriculture, organized four separate initiatives during the meeting at the UDOT extension classroom on the Tooele County Health Building. Tooele County Commissioner Wade Rimel was also present to represent the county.

According to Rogers, there are two questions that must guide the elements of any dress code. "Is it disruptive to the educational environment?" and "Is it safe?"

Policies that get outside of those two questions may violate student’s constitutional rights, according to Rogers. "However, no matter how the policy is written, it ends up subjective," he said. "For example, when you say 'no extreme hair styles what is extreme?'

The map below shows the sage-grouse management area encircled in red, with areas currently total just over 90,000 acres and are located in both Tooele and Juab counties.

The team is also taking into account the movements of the sage-grouse population within the Sheeprocks. White said, "This is an adaptive thing, he said. "Every year, our forage area (rare) changes." Chris Parkins represented the USFWS during the discussion about increasing predator control on canals and red foxes. He said the department would be willing to work with the group, but said the funding would come from the USFWS.

We're being pulled in all directions," he said. "Every county in the state wants our help in predator control. We're pushed this, to be honest. We'd love to have a separate contract or a lead hare to augment the existing one, depending on how bad predator conditions are in the Sheeprocks. Increased predator control would likely come before the working group moved ahead with its plans to translocate 10 male and 10 female sage-grouse from a population in Box Elder County in the spring, Bolton said.

Avery Cool, upland game project leader from LDWF, will organize the translocation, pending approval from the Utah Wildlife Board and Regional Advisory Council. The board may not address the idea until its January meeting, Cook said.

In the meantime, Chris Bryan of the BLM Salt Lake Field Office reported the agency has made the Sheeprocks its highest priority as it works to update its travel management plans. At the meeting, Bryan reported the DWR and other officials about different methods of developing the rules of the ruts for recreation in the Sheeprocks.

Rogers presented the board with a packet that included dress code policies from around a half-dozen Utah school districts.

The Davis School District dress code is less than one half page in length. Among four numbered points is one that reads, "Students shall not wear extreme clothing, including frilly pants or shirts, excessively short pants or dresses, tank tops or clothing that exposes bare midriffs and underwear."

The Jordan School District dress code is found among three pages of policy language titled "Student Conduct and Skills." Rogers noted, "There are 36 pages of policy language."

Tooele County students may not be the only ones looking at a new dress code policy. Separate from the student dress code policy, Rogers also asked board members to look at a dress code policy for school employees.

The draft students dress code policy may be ready for the Oct. 13 school board meeting.

Buffaloes stampede over Stallions

With an 11-point lead at half, and 5-6 left in the fourth quarter, Tooele’s football team wasn’t content to simply hold off a potential comeback attempt from archrival Stansbury to secure the Class 3AA North region opener on Friday night at Stallion Stadium.

The Buffaloes wanted to prevent the Stallions from ever having a chance. “This, as Tooele coach Kyle Brady tried to send on his own team on fourth-and-1 from the Buffs’ 47-yard line, the play of his offense led him to change his mind.”

“We’ve got a good football team that’ll do the right play, and we’ll take it out on other people’s games, sometimes going to the end where we need to make a play.”

After a timeout to gather his eight-play, Tooele quarterback Carson Jaramillo handoff for the fullback to the Stansbury 6-yard line. Brady responded with a nine-play, 75-yard drive that eventually ended 15 plays and consumed 12 minutes, 9 seconds of game time to preserve Tooele’s 27-16 victory.

“We were very confident — we’ve been talking about this all week,” Powers said. “With this win and our homecoming (this) week, we’ve got the most confidence we’ve ever had.”

Running back Ryan Brady picked 17 yards on the next two plays, followed by a pair of carries by Powers. After Brady ran 15 yards on a faked field goal, Powers gained 3 yards on the final run-and-one from the Buffs’ 1 (1-8 3AA North). Face another opportunity to keep the ball away from the Stallions (0-1-0), Brady responded with a nine-yard run that gave Tooele another first down and allowed the Buffs to run out the clock.

“We just play hard until that last whistle blows,” said Ryan Brady, who ran for 188 yards and a third-quarter touchdown.

It was the perfect finish to a masterful performance by the Buffaloes, whose defense limited Stansbury to just 146 yards on the ground and forced three turnovers.

“Getting a veteran team, we thought we’d have a shot and our kids never backed down,” said Carson Jaramillo. “Coach (Chris) Christiansen said ‘Hang in there Kyle Brady and we’ll have a good team out there.’”

Stanbury’s first two turnovers of the game proved especially costly. Late in the first quarter, Tooele junior Ty Ahlstrom stripped the ball from Stallion quarterback Lathan Christiansen, giving the Buffs a 3-0 lead. On the very next play, Christiansen scored a two yard TD run to tie the Buffs 7-3.

After a field goal by Tarl Lewis later to give Tooele a 6-0 lead. Brady’s TD run on fourth-and-one from the Buffs’ 1-yard line, giving the Stallions a 7-6 lead. Jaramillo scored two plays later to give Tooele a 14-6 lead.

“Tooele’s got a veteran team, we’ve got a young bunch and our kids never backed down, Hats off to Kyle Brady and his bunch — he’s got a good team out there.”

Less than 48 hours after a thrilling 5-4 loss in the Region 10 opener to Stansbury, it was only natural for the Tooele girls soccer team to have a bit of a letdown in Thursday’s home match against Grantsville.

Fortunately for the Buffaloes, it wasn’t enough to cost them a loss, as they beat the Cowboys 5-1 despite a lackluster-at-times effort.

“Today was just — it was the win that counts, not the performance, because the performance wasn’t great,” Tooele coach Stephen Duggan said.

Tooele (3-3-1, 1-1 Region 10) struggled to find the kind of offensive chemistry that helped the Buffs go toe-to-toe with Stansbury just two days earlier.

Grantsville (3-2, 1-1), brimming with confidence after beating Union 1-0 earlier in the week in its region opener, also threw a wrench in the Tooele attack with an aggressive effort.

“I’m happy with the effort,” Cowboys coach Travis Lowry said. “It’s an evolution for our team. A game like that in years past would have been way more lopsided. I think we played well and did a lot of good things in the game.”
