City Hall adopts tentative budget for FY 2017-18

MARK NAYTON

City Mayor Gary Stott stresses that another tentative city budget has been passed with-out residents facing a tax increase.

“IT’S ultra-conservative and has been criticized in the past for being ultra-conservative,” said Mayor Patrick Dunlavy.

“I don’t think the residents don’t have a lot of faith.”

The city council passed a resolution last Wednesday to adopt the city’s tentative $105.5 million budget for the 2017-18 fiscal year that begins July 1.

The mayor and members of his staff have worked on Formulating the budget since January, and the document is available for public review at the city recorder’s office.

A public hearing on the tentative budget is scheduled for June 21 at 6 p.m. at City Hall.

The city must have a balanced budget finalized and available for public review at June 21 at 6 p.m. at City Hall.

County’s planning commission gives thumbs down to road closure

TOM GILLIE

The Tooele County Planning Commission did not like a developer’s request to close a portion of Lakeshore Drive in Lake Point and route it through a future subdivision.

The county planning commission voted to recommend that the county commission not approve the vacation, or closure, of Lakeshore Drive from Sanit Road to the north boundary of Ahi Arroyo during their May meeting.

The developer of Salt Creek development owns the property over which Lakeshore Drive runs in that area. They requested the vacation of the road.

The developer’s plan is to replace that section of Lakeshore Drive with a new road that will connect farms.

PROPERLY DISPOSING HAZARDOUS WASTE

The Tooele County Health Department and Tooele City hosted Saturday’s “It’s time to clean house” hazardous waste drop-off event at Clean Harbors Environmental Facility at 2150 N. 470 E. in Tooele.

From 9 a.m. to noon, residents were allowed to drop off used oil, paints, poisons and other household chemicals, along with prescription drugs and E-waste.

Devon Pitt (lower left) packages discarded E-waste for recycling, while Kristen Bolinder and Hillary Bryan (below) survey residents about what hazardous materials they are bringing for disposal.

The annual drop-off event has been held for years and gives residents the opportunity to properly dispose of unwanted household hazardous waste.

Bike rodeo to help kids prepare for a safe summer

SAULT LAKE CITY (AP) — Children and families need the 4th of July and Independence Day to ensure their time in bikes that they sometimes ride in. Salt Lake County Health Department officials are adding with Safe Kids Salt Lake County's annual bike rodeo to learn about bicycles. The event is held 5-3 p.m. at the Neighborhood House in 1000 W South, Salt Lake City, SLC, Utah. Officers will demonstrate how to use helmets, bike repair, and then offer free bike safety classes to low-income families with children. tickets are available at neighborhoodhouse.org.

As a result, statewide mail carrier will collect donations during their routes Saturday, July 14, 2012. Mail carriers will be on hand at each Utah Food Bank location to collect donations.

A new partnership between the United Way, the American Red Cross, and the United Nations Food and Agriculture Organization has emerged as one of the 25th Annual Letter Carriers’ National Food Drive. The food drive has been a successful effort to collect food and raise awareness of hunger in Utah.

In the past, the food drive has been held in cooperation with various community organizations, including the Utah Food Bank and the National Letter Carriers’ Association. The drive has collected and distributed food to various organizations and agencies, including Neighborhood House, Utah Food Bank, and other local charities.

The 25th Annual Letter Carriers’ National Food Drive is expected to be the largest single-day food drive in Utah, with participation from more than 400 agencies.

SAULT LAKE CITY (AP) — Low-income families can benefit from a 60% tax credit on food bank donations. The Utah Food Bank has partnered with the Utah Food Bank Association to offer this tax credit, which can be applied to donations of food, clothing, or other items.

On stage at The Old Grantsville Church Dinner Theatre

The 25th Annual Letter Carriers’ National Food Drive is sponsored by the National Association of Letter Carriers in cooperation with the National Rural Letter Carrier Association and United States Postal Service. The service is designed to provide relief for food banks and other organizations that assist people in need.

New report about opioid deaths in county is revelatory and disturbing

So far, so bad

A new report released by the state last week made Tooele County the leader in the state to take proactive steps to curb the growing crisis of opioid addiction. According to a new report released recently by the Utah Department of Health and Human Services, there have been 39 opioid deaths in Tooele County from July 1, 2015, to March 15, 2017. This is the highest number of opioid deaths in any county in Utah.

In France, nanny-statism is the bigger danger

Rachel Manson

When Donald Trump is president of the world

As Trump approaches his 100th day, one thing is clear: This administration is focused on getting things done (or undone), and making sweeping changes that will have a lasting impact on American life. In this era of rapid change, it is crucial to have a clear understanding of the potential consequences of these sweeping changes.

In France, nanny-statism is a growing concern. With the rise of the National Front and Marine Le Pen, there is a renewed interest in the idea of making government more intrusive in people's lives. This is not a new concept, as it has been a recurring theme in French politics for many years. However, the current trend in nanny-statism is particularly concerning, as it has been accompanied by a rise in authoritarianism and nationalism.

In France, there is a growing sentiment that the government should be more involved in people's lives. This is especially true in areas such as healthcare, education, and social welfare. The government has taken steps to increase its role in these areas, including expanding the role of the state in providing healthcare and education.

These policies are driven by a desire to provide more social support for citizens, particularly those who may be struggling financially. The government has proposed initiatives to increase access to healthcare, such as expanding Medicaid, and increasing funding for education programs. However, these policies also come with a cost, as they require more taxes and government spending.

In France, this trend toward nanny-statism has led to a rise in authoritarianism and nationalism. This is evident in the rise of the National Front, which has been successful in gaining support in recent elections.

In conclusion, the rise of nanny-statism in France is a concerning trend. It is important to carefully consider the potential consequences of these policies, and to ensure that they are implemented in a way that is both effective and compassionate. We must also be mindful of the role of authoritarianism in this process, and work to ensure that the government remains accountable to the people it serves.

‘Mom, I have a secret, and I can’t wait to surprise you!’

Editor’s note: ‘Mom, I have a secret’ is a local religious leader’s piece to surprise you on Mother’s Day. It is written in strength in these modern times.

Fifty-one years ago, when my mother graduated from Harrington Elementary School, the cows and chickens in the spring on the part that we could provide for our moms on Mother’s Day.

He was also a very wise and caring man who made sure every mom that I had a Mother’s Day gift for.

I do not also hope that she would not answer my questions, but I could talk about anything with my family when I was hurt.

I always closed my mom’s door under my hand so that she would not be afraid to have the flood gate open.

He was also very fond of his family and friends and made every move feel like family, including having a good meal and camping. He enjoyed the peaceful beauty of nature and the country.

He loved to take care of the elderly, including his own children, Timmy (Scott), Douglas, Russell (Beth), and my grandchildren Luke and Jake, adopted son.

He was passionate about the same location as the funeral home.

Tooele County’s tourism attractiveness to increase tourism in Tooele

summary concluded, “there is potential, Deaver said. “It will attract tourists, according to the study.”

was that, except for two or three tourist attractions in the county, and hosted five focus groups throughout the Wasatch Front, surveyed online assets, visited maps about the county, looked at severalee articles, visited or learned about 30 different tourist attractions in the county, and home, and focus four members with local community leaders involving 46 participants.

The consultant also held in-depth interviews with 15 community leaders and 40 residents of Tooele County and the Wasington Town, surveyed 450 people, interviewed tourism specialists in five Utah cities, attended a Tooele County Tourism Tax Advisory Board meetings, and reviewed research from public and private institutions.

The key findings from what was done during the survey were:

1. That except for two or three tourist attractions, none of the county’s tourism venues are likely to be a primary tourism attractor, according to Dunlevy.

2. But that doesn’t mean the county doesn’t have tourist potential, Deaver said.

Overall, the discovery study concluded, “there are abundant opportunities to increase tourism in Tooele County.”

As a bundle, many of Tooele County’s tourism attractions will contribute secondarily to the overall attractiveness of Tooele County, according to the study.

Deaver said the tourism attraction venues in the county can be looked at like a shopping mall.

The large, big anchor venues are represented by those venues that the study identified as having the potential to draw a large number of tourists and the potential to raise the county’s tourism brand and its attractiveness. These venues are

Utah Moab Hotel, Canyon Music Timelapse Peak Complex, and the La Sal River. Close to the anchor venues is potential for attracting tourists and revenue are most-neat venues including the Bonnie Salt Flats and Bonneville Speedway, the Window Aliboo Airfield and Airpark, the Bunker Grindel, hunting, fishing, wilderness activities, and off-roading.

Other venues, while smaller in terms of potential to attract visitors and revenue, but still important venues in terms of the overall tourism environment of the county, include the Utah Historical Museum, Deep Freeze, whale watching, Ogden Mihai Museum, Tooele Valley Railroad Museum, Tooele Pioneer Complex, Donner Road Museum, Danger Cave, and Sundance Peak Observatory.

In the middle of the venues is the Ogden Historic District, Old West Festival, and War of 1812 and 1861.

Though small in size, medium potential for either drawing visitors or creating revenue, according to the study.

The list of venues is not all-inclusive, Deaver said.

With metrics about Tooele County and people’s perceptions of the county, the most step is for State Street Partners to work with the county to define the county’s brand and unique attractions, according to Dunlevy.

Tooele County entered into a contract with State Street Partners in January 2016, after the county Tourism Advisory Board recommended a consultant be hired to brand the county for tourism and develop a plan for tourism.

The Tournece Tourism Advisory Board recommended State Street Partners for the $160,000 contract after they reviewed eight responses to a request for proposals.

Deaver said the tourism and tourism revenue for the fiscal year is $3.5 million from sales tax, $2.9 million from lodging tax, and $5.6 million in CFC Trail funds.

approved by the city council by the end of the week.

Nearly 25 percent of the city’s budget — $4.9 million — goes toward the police department. The mayor said the police department is in need of a new police station.

“We do capital projects, what is the station?” Dunlevy said. “Like right now, we can afford to build a police station although it is badly needed. The police absolutely need a new building, there’s no question about it. Things are due for a new building.”

He added, “I made the comments that unless something unforeseen happened, I wouldn’t raise people’s taxes. We’ve lived within our means and I’m very proud of that.”

But the mayor also said, “I mean, it’s going to be much more difficult to do that just because of the current revenue, mainly because of the lawsuit. Eventually, we will have to

During its 104 years of existence, Tooele High School has had five band directors. This is the last year for the fifth. Marilyn Syra is retiring as band director at Tooele High School at the end of this school year.

Syra moved to Tooele in 1996 and substitute taught for a year, before she started teaching band full-time in the fall of 1997. "This is the last chapter of this book for me," Syra said. "It's time to move on to a new book."

Syra's tough, but fun, approach of extracting excellence from her students will be missed, according to Stacy Smart, Band Booster president and a nine-year band mom. "When many think of Syra they might think of a very strict and determined band director," Smart said. "But they might also credit her with some of the greatest band directors in the history of THS band."

“Magic in the Mountains’

Answering the call is a chance to be a conduit of goodness

My telephone alarm went off and I leaped out of bed in a daze, wondering if I was in the right time zone. I checked my phone and saw that it was 6 AM. I turned on the lights and walked to the kitchen where my coffee was brewing. As I poured my cup, I felt a sense of peace wash over me. I took a sip and closed my eyes, letting the warmth of the coffee seep into my body.

As I sipped my coffee, I heard a knock on the door. I opened it to find a Tune-Elle Plumbing & Heating employee standing there. I asked what they were doing there, and they explained that they were there to fix a leak in my bathroom.

I thanked them for coming, and the employee explained that they were part of the senior discount program. They offered me a discount on the repair, and I accepted. I felt grateful for their kindness and the opportunity to help someone in need.

As I said goodbye to the employee, I felt a sense of satisfaction wash over me. I knew that I had made a small difference in someone’s life, and that made me feel good. I took a deep breath and walked back to my coffee, feeling grateful for the magic in the mountains.

Energy Efficiency: Building a Clean, Secure Economy

The entire world, especially the United States, is in the midst of an energy revolution. Since the oil embargoes of 1973, individual, corporations, and other organizations have found ways to steadily reduce energy use. In this issue, Hoover Institution reveals how the nurturing of private-enterprise energy efficiency can activate the economy, increase the environment, and benefit corporations.

Energy Efficiency: Building a Clean, Secure Economy

'Energy Efficiency: Building a Clean, Secure Economy' presents a comprehensive analysis of how the energy efficiency policies and practices of the United States policy-makers and the public sector can benefit the country’s energy situation and help reduce greenhouse gas emissions. The book offers practical solutions to the energy challenges faced by the country, and it is a valuable resource for policymakers, businesses, and individuals seeking to make a difference in the energy efficiency revolution.

“Both were played good — it was a good game,” Stansbury coach Jacob Jones said. “We played well in the first two and had some good hits when we needed them, but we played horrible, and we just didn’t do what we needed to do.”
While the game didn’t mean anything to Grantsville in the standings, as the Cowgirls had already clinched the region championship, losing to Grantsville is no small feat.
“Think this one hurt a little bit — like, personally, it hurts to lose,” Grantsville coach Heidi Taylor said. “I think this one might hurt a lot to our seniors, because they needed it, Tender is coming.”

The Stallions’ second doubles duo, L.T. Thomas and Brandon Kimbrell, took second at state for the second year in a row. The Westers also tied for the second doubles title with Region 10’s Stansbury.
Gordh and his Corky, by the way. They’ve got the best goal-keepers in the state. They’ve got some good players.”
“Normally, they are on top. They come up strong. They’ve got goals for them. They should get some more points. Grantsville was just a little bit better than us,” Taylor added.
“I think this one hurt a little bit — like, personally, it hurts to lose,” Grantsville coach Heidi Taylor said. “I think this one might hurt a lot to our seniors, because they needed it, Tender is coming.”

regular season. I try to look thrills all together. We’re sup-posed to be the best in the region and we’re competitors and ‘partners,’ but I consider all of my kids, all my team and I want them all to believe that they’re going to outdo and outplay the. Just a regular athletes — they have an opportunity to work side-by-side with these special-needs kids that they might not have otherwise. It helps them grow and learn, and what a learning experience for them. These special-needs kids have great heart and great spirit. They have a special-needs kids in a championship, the team from Grantsville finished fourth in Division 1 after a couple of
