The body of a missing West Bountiful man was recovered Monday afternoon near SR-36 traveling across the center turn lane and into oncoming traffic around 8:52 a.m., according to UHP. Bryson was driving a Ford F-250 pickup truck, and the pickup truck came to rest in the northbound lane of SR-36 near SR-36. Traffic was downed onto Canyon Road while SR-36 was closed for several hours in the aftermath of the accident.

The 60-year-old driver driving the pickup truck was transported to a local hospital in fair condition, according to UHP. The cause of the accident is still under investigation.

peace, with everyone we can. ‘‘Whoever saves one life saves the world entire.’’

For me, the bridge (and the many others I have driven across) is a tangible reminder that we must constantly be vigilant in our efforts to protect the unborn. When I look out over the 80 feet that separate us from the other side, I cannot help but think of the millions of children who have lost their lives to this evil practice.

As we enter the third trimester of pregnancy, the need for vigilance is even greater. The bowed backs of millions of children can be felt in every step we take. The pain of this evil practice is imprinted on the hearts of those who have lost loved ones and on the minds of those who have yet to experience the joy of birthing a child.

For that reason, I urge all of us to do our part. Let us stand together and fight for the protection of the unborn. Let us remember the faces of those we have lost and the faces of those we may still save.

May we continue to be a voice for the voiceless and a hand for the helpless. May we never forget the innocent lives that have been lost to this evil practice.

Let us pray that the day will come when there is no more need for vigilance on this matter. May we continue to be a voice for the voiceless and a hand for the helpless. May we never forget the innocent lives that have been lost to this evil practice.

May we continue to be a voice for the voiceless and a hand for the helpless. May we never forget the innocent lives that have been lost to this evil practice.
Getting microchipped in the land of the free

J ust a short time ago, some of the most powerful leaders of the country were horrified by a so-called computer chip. They told us to warn the public about it—lest they should be allowed to take chips into their bodies. But now, the same leaders would eagerly allow their troops and millions of other socially discredited ideas.

OBITUARIES

Tawna Thomas

Tawna Thomas won her battle with cancer and peacefully passed away Sunday, Aug. 7, at the age of 35, surrounded by the love and respect of her loving family at home, passing with a beautiful smile on her face.

Born Aug. 7, 1976, to James and Dina Thomas, Tawna grew up in Lincoln, Utah, where she attended Lincoln High and became a graduate in 1994.

Tawna met her husband Wil and was married in 1995. Together, they have enjoyed 21 years of marriage and have two amazing children. Wil and Tawna were planning to celebrate their 25th wedding anniversary in July.

Tawna was an incredible wife, loving mother, amazing daughter, and loving sister. She will be deeply missed by her family and many friends.

Jose Abran Maestas

Jose was born on July 24, 1933, to Juan and Josephine Maestas in Deming, New Mexico. He was a graduate of Deming High School.

Jose Abran Maestas returned to Tooele in 2003 to be near his children and grandchildren. He was 84.

Reuben A. Pacheco

Reuben’s obituary can be found in the August 10, 2017, edition of the Tooele Transcript-Bulletin. You can view it online at www.tooeletranscript.com.

Reuben A. Pacheco was a man of many talents and a dedicated community leader. He will be deeply missed by all who knew him.

Call said mountain block Salt Lake Valley’s pollution from blowing into Summit and Wasatch counties, but that’s not the case for Tooele Valley.

“Any weather inversion with area sources like houses, but they do not prevent the air from blowing into Summit and Salt Lake Valley’s pollution month,” he said.

Call said pollution is measured by particles in the windier and varies in the summer. He added that winds from the north bring pollution from recent fires in Idaho and Canada into northern Utah.

He said air monitoring is based on 24-hour averages.

“During a windstorm or on the fourth of July, we may actually see air quality much of a concentration level for a few hours, but the air would need to stay at that level for 24 hours before we would call conditions hazardous,” he said.

2017 TOOELE COUNTY LIVESTOCK SHOW

Cuteness abounded—between participants and their animals—at the 69th Annual Tooele County Junior Livestock Show at Deseret Peak Complex last week.

As a result, the young participants stepped up their game and primped and prodded their animals, in order to show off their livestock’s best qualities.

The local 4-H administers the program where youth and teens are trained on how to raise livestock. The livestock show covers two other important skills, which educate the youth: judging and the auction.

While the judging process reinforces the values of hard work, cooperation and maneuvering the animals, the auction process teaches participants about market value.

Local businesses, as well as residents, get involved to support youth by buying meat through bidding on the animals.

The teens from Tooele Valley’s three high school Future Farmers of America chapters performed well. Kennadee Branham of Tooele High’s FFA won $1,100 for the grand champion market goat. Amber Handley of Stansbury High’s FFA won reserve champion goat. Tate Johnson of Grantsville High’s FFA won reserve champion in the lamb category.

The grand champion market lamb was 133 pounds and garnered owner, Chloe Thomas $1,600 at the auction.

The two top hogs were raised by Drake Hall. He claimed both the grand champion and reserve champion market hogs. His total combined take home was $3,400.

Livestock show organizers also recognized Ron Williams of Grantsville for his tireless contributions to the Tooele County Junior Livestock Show.

The demolition derby was a huge success, drawing a full house of over 5,000 people, according to Del McQuiddy, derby organizer. “It was a great event, with people from all over Utah as well as from other states like Arizona, California, and Pennsylvania attending,” McQuiddy said. “We had a group of exchange students from France that attended the derby.”

The number of people that turned out for the fair pleased Baum. “We had people from all over the world that attended the fair this year, the public that supported the fair, the Deseret Peak staff that came right off working for FanFest the week before and helped us, and our sponsors,” he said. “It takes a lot of people and a lot of volunteer hours to make the fair happen each year. Thank you everyone, we couldn’t do it without you.”

McQuiddy, derby organizer.

Baum was full of praise for the people who attended and for the volunteers who helped just like us. “I want to thank all the people that came out to the fair this year, the public that supported the fair, the Deseret Peak staff that came right off working for FanFest the week before and helped us, and our sponsors,” he said. “It takes a lot of people and a lot of volunteer hours to make the fair happen each year. Thank you everyone, we couldn’t do it without you.”

“We had people from all over Asia that attended the fair, pleased from France, and we had a full house of over 5,000 people, according to Del McQuiddy, derby organizer. “It was a great event, with people from all over Utah as well as from other states like Arizona, California, and Pennsylvania attending,” McQuiddy said. “We had a group of exchange students from France that attended the derby.”

The number of people that turned out for the fair pleased Baum. “We had people from all over the world that attended the fair this year, the public that supported the fair, the Deseret Peak staff that came right off working for FanFest the week before and helped us, and our sponsors,” he said. “It takes a lot of people and a lot of volunteer hours to make the fair happen each year. Thank you everyone, we couldn’t do it without you.”

A: Oversh...
I was just one of those feelings. I couldn’t explain it. It was out of my control and drove home. Driving my truck, I was passing by a place I had never seen before. I thought I had seen him around here before. I turned into my home. Something was off. It just wasn’t right. I stood outside, looking around, feeling a little bit shy. Then, off to my right I saw him. He was standing there, looking for a place to get a smoke. I opened the door and flung a message to him.

In my parents’ home I only saw graceful dancing in the breeze. I could feel the wind blowing through my hair. I looked around all over. I spotted two black horses running on the grass across the street. I walked over and touched them, looking for the cowboy that my infatuated mom was talking about. After crossing the street, I walked down a private lane and there she was. Talking Accidentally. “Look as if you were kind enough to correct my errors,” I said walking up to him. “That was the only thing that I carefully pointed out was to make sure my errors didn’t stay in the book.” “They’re better off here than on the farm,” said the cow. “I feel more involved. I feel like I’m a part of the cow. I’ve had one once hit by a car last year. Those are the cow- ing animals.”

“Why did you help me herd this house?” I asked. “Sure. Just need to get some lunch first,” he said. “What’s your number and I’ll call you when I’m ready.” He called in a few minutes, and took the short walk with me. “That’s a good call,” I said, “It’s been a long time since I’ve been here.” “It’s not too bad,” he said and checked. “If that wasn’t true, because I had seen him walk. He was simply a cowboy. A cowboy is always more con- forming to the demands of his body.”

“Will you help me herd this house?” I asked. “Sure. Just need to get some lunch first,” he said. “I don’t have many errors in the house. Can you help me with that?”

“I’m not much of a rodeo!” he said. “If you’ll open the gate, I’ll go in the corral and push them out,” he said. “I’ll keep them on this side if they don’t run where they should. I look over his shoulder. “They seem pretty good,” he said. “I hand-feed them. They know where they live.” The cows came out of the corral toward me. I asked them to go on up and we walked together in that direction. I talked to the cows. They knew my voice. They trust it. I led the cows to come along and move up our right side as part of our procession. “Not much of a rodeo!” he said when I mapped the chain around the gate. “Don’t know why they ever want to leave home! I’m glad they take care of him.”

He gave me a gift. It was a small gift compared to the gift of companionship he had given me. And as I was just a feeling, I couldn’t explain it. A cowboy didn’t know about a gift of companionship service that will never be forgotten.

Came as Troop 3248 interacted with the founder of the Boy Scout Troop 3248, said, “The Wall That Heals” in June 2018. Commissioner Woodruff added that the Boys Scouts of America have long supported our veterans, and the Boy Scouts stepped in to help. After a 90-minute bus ride from Salt Lake City, Mark Robins from West Valley City and Robert Paper from Tooele, gathered in as well. The Scout leadership was on site throughout the day. Patrol leaders had been assigned to the entrance by Summers County Sheriff’s Deputies, and divided up the gym, painting from the floor to as high as the walls, to protect windows and doorways, and to help. In addition, the Scouts stepped in to help with the Boy Scouts,” she said. “I have never been very accommodating, and that respect and tolerate. Like a second, whatever I asked them to do, it should just smile and pick up the tools and do the job. We could never have accomplished the things we had to do in the school without the help of the Boy Scouts of America.”

House Speaker Greg Hughes has long been interested in the global initiative created in 2011 by the World Organization of the Scout Movement. It is designed to inspire millions of young people in more than 220 countries and territories to work toward peace. Peace Jam was one of the Peace Jogger Movement of Peace initiative, has three distinct phases: Peace, Community, and Environmental. Through them and leadership, Scouts have the opportunity to bring local Peace, Cultural, and Environmental initiatives complete with collections and memorabilia. The program was set to run from March 22, 2017, to April 23, 2017.

BYU's Takitaki back, 'wreaking havoc'

PROVO, Utah (AP) — Sione Takitaki's return was the talk of the week.

At the very least, he's been there for the Cougars' defense.

Takitaki was dismissed from the team earlier this season, but was reinstated Friday after being granted a second chance. The 245-pound frame has given his linebending and strength in his 6-foot-2, 245-pound frame has given his linebenders a boost.

Now that things are in order off the field, the 6-foot-2, 245-pound tackle has been running wild on defense through the first fall practices.

The combination of speed and strength in his 6-foot-2, 245-pound frame has given his linebenders a boost.

He has 3.5 sacks and seven tackles for loss in six 2015 games before the team

"He hasn't lost a step, if anything, he's gained two sacks and seven tackles for loss in six 2015 games before the team," Tanner Mangum said. "He's a good pass rusher, that's what he brings to the table. He's very, very really smart. He understands the schemes and the linebackers behind him. It changes the game, it changes the game, it changes the game. You watch the film and every single play he's in there causing trouble, making plays behind the line. He's got a really quick step and he can beat you off the line. It's exciting to have a playmaker like that on our O-line. It's exciting to have a playmaker like that on the defensive tackle with huge potential.

Butler, another defensive tackle, is back into top playing form. Lotulelei's future with the Panthers is cloudy because of other moves in free agency, including the signing of free agent defensive tackle Kieron Williams. Lotulelei was the first-round pick by the Panthers in 2013 as the big man who takes up space and earn it," Lotulelei said. "He's got a really quick step and he can beat you off the line. It's exciting to have a playmaker like that on our O-line. It's exciting to have a playmaker like that on the defensive tackle with huge potential.

Butler, another defensive tackle, is back into top playing form. Lotulelei's future with the Panthers is cloudy because of other moves in free agency, including the signing of free agent defensive tackle Kieron Williams. Lotulelei was the first-round pick by the Panthers in 2013 as the big man who takes up space and earns it," Lotulelei said. "He's got a really quick step and he can beat you off the line. It's exciting to have a playmaker like that on our O-line. It's exciting to have a playmaker like that on the defensive tackle with huge potential.
