Tooele City Hall looking to give employees pay increase

MARK NASHING
The Tooele City Council is considering pay increases for city employees as part of its 2019-20 fiscal year budget.

City leaders reviewed an in-depth study of Tooele’s finances by Lewis Young Robertson & Buckingham, Inc. during a work meeting on April 4.

The study showed a “structural imbalance” for the general fund. For the past 10 years, Tooele has not raised taxes, but has made advances in other areas to raise revenue and lower expenditures, according Mayor Debbie Wixon.

In order to balance the budget through the year, employ-

Air Force, BLM seek comment on road closures

The United States Air Force and Bureau of Land Management are seeking public comment on an agreement that would allow for limited road closures at the Utah Test and Training Range in the West Desert.

The draft memorandum of understanding between the Air Force and BLM would outline the closures procedures and what would be controlled by the BLM during training missions. The roads identified for the closures are within the buffer zones added in the 2017 National Defense Authorization Act.

The buffer zones, which total 215,643 acres, were added to allow a more relaxed usage of more advanced weapons like F-35s and long-range bomb-

Tooele County Republicans will prepare for four primary races for Tooele County official following the results of the party’s convention this week. The Tooele County Republican Party held its nominating convention on Friday at the Utah Firefighter’s Museum and Memorial at Deseret Peak Complex. Between the delegate vote and petition, all of the races will see primary. However, state law allows candidates to run in both the primary and a new fire station on 1000 North.

“The main reason is to keep employee’s wages in line with the cost of living,” said Myron Bateman, Tooele County Republican Party chairwoman.

The Tooele County Republican Party rules require a candidate to receive 60 percent of delegate votes to avoid a primary. In other words, a candidate needs to get 30 percent of delegates to win without a general election.

The only race during the county Republican convention where a candidate received more than 60 percent of delegate votes was the mayor’s race.

The mayor’s race was held to determine which candidates would represent the party on the primary ballot. A candidate needed to receive 60 percent of delegate votes to win the race.

County to install toll booths at Middle Canyon entrances

TIM GILLIE
When Tooele County opens Middle Canyon this spring, motorists will need to be ready to fork out cash to get into the canyon.

The Tooele County Conservation has approved a plan to install a toll booth at the mouth of Middle Canyon to catch outbound traffic and another one near the end of the paved road on the Tooele County side to catch inbound traffic.

The fee for overnight camping in one of Middle Canyon’s 43 canyons will be available for $50. A season pass for both Middle and Settlement canyons will be available for $10.

A new reportable category for kindness was added to the SafeUT app, which is a tool for anonymous reporting of school concerns including depression or suicidal thoughts. Senator Daniel Thatcher announced this change and recognized two students for their kind actions.

The SafeUT app, developed by the Utah Department of Public Safety, is designed for students to report concerns to school counselors or police through voice or chat. It also allows students to request to be matched with a counselor based on their needs. By adding kindness as a reportable event, students can now report acts of kindness and receive recognition for their actions.

Senator Thatcher expressed the importance of recognizing kindness and encouraging students to be kind to one another. He said, "Kindness can change everything." The addition of kindness as a reportable event is a step towards making schools a safer and more positive environment for students.

The SafeUT app is available on smartphones, and students are encouraged to download it and use it to report concerns or seek help when needed.
Teachers honored for teaching health and fitness

The Live Fit Tooele County Coalition honored three teachers this month for their innovative methods of teaching health and fitness to students during the third term.

Winners included Polly Jones, sixth-grade teacher at Steyler Elementary; Katrina Mick, sixth-grade teacher at Willow Elementary; and Laura Bastian, third-grade teacher at Willow Elementary.

Jones believes that seniors need to feel healthy and wellness is just as important as physical health for her senior clients. She said she has devoted her life to working with seniors as a volunteer and to the community through service.

"I have a happy place," said Laura Bastian (left), Polly Jones (middle), and Katrina Mick were recognized by Live Fit Tooele County.

"There’s a high sense of achievement, too. They feel accomplished that bothered them. We talk about students liking themselves with positive self-talk if something happened that bothered them. We talk about students liking themselves with positive self-talk if something happened that bothered them.

Jones also teaches her students visualization. She said the students begin by tightening and relaxing major muscle groups in their bodies.

"They are learning to recognize the sensations in their muscles so that they can separate them. We begin with the toes and work up to the neck, body, shoulders and hands.

"This is working instead of paying fees. My frustration is, I think about them anymore. They don’t get the question ‘What are they for?’ That’s what my students want to submit their efforts to the Wellness in the Classroom Awards for the Tooele County Community Assessment by the Utah County United Way for Ut.
Connect with people," she said, "We're selling the opportunity to show, Sheryl Sandberg was asked that he pretends to have stumbled on a exceptionally gifted one, but Zuckerberg is a businessman, and Facebook can't bear to admit that it has garnered the largest collection of data on individuals without their knowledge or consent. In fact, Facebook is the only company that has been able to create a comprehensive database of the "global community," whatever that means. This is the problem that Mark Zuckerberg and his successors have had to deal with, and it has led to the creation of "Facebook" as we know it today. Facebook has now made it possible for people to connect with each other on a global scale. It's a tool that has been used to promote the idea of "the village global." However, the problem is that users are not aware of the power those in charge has over them. As users, we are nothing more than data points to be used for profit. This is where the "Free Syrian Army" comes in. They have been fighting against the "Assad regime" for years, and they have been able to get access to the data that Facebook has gathered. This has led to the creation of a new form of warfare, "digital warfare." It's possible to imagine a world where Facebook is used to promote global peace. However, the reality is that Facebook is a tool to be used for profit. The future of the "global community" is uncertain, and it's up to us to decide what we want it to be. The choice is ours. It's up to us to decide whether we want to use Facebook for profit or for the betterment of humanity."

transparency provided by the mayor who helped set up a town hall meeting on Feb. 28 to provide the public with a glimpse of how city finances work.

Budget proposals by city department heads also have been a part of the year’s city council meeting agenda. After departmental budgets were presented in an open meeting on March 7, the parks and recreation budget was presented on March 21, and the public works budget was presented on April 4.

According to the Lewis Young Robertson & Burchett study, one tax scenario to help pay for a city employee’s wage increase doles the owner of a home valued at $240,000 would pay an additional $39.30 per month in city property tax.
The same household would pay $2.37 per month to build a new police station, and an extra $2.78 to build a new fire station.

The city also needs more money to build a new police station, help with a deficit repair, capital improvements, and equipment.

Councilman Steve Pruden said it is imperative that Tooele City continues to grow as the city’s property tax rate has not been increased for 36 years.

Warde said there have been recent tax increases from Tooele County and Tooele School District, but none from Tooele City.

Pruden said the city has learned through public meetings and talking to citizens that re-placing the public safety building and improving police offices are priorities. Upgrading roads, paying for police officers, fixing city parks, and paying for parking jobs are major priorities.

“Councilman Brown said the police situation fixed, both the facility and stopping the high turnover men for police officers leaving or for other jobs,” Pruden said. “They don’t want any new parks built until we spill up the parks we already have. This was all very eye-opening to me. I think we’ve been given our marching orders to some degree by the people in the community. They trust us and want us to do this.’’

Councilman Melodi Gosh said that employees deserve a pay increase.

“We need to do something other than balancing the bud-get on the backs of our employ-ees,’’ Gosh said. “They don’t feel the way they need to. They feel like they need an increase for several years. It’s a tough situation to work through the hard times. We need to take care of the people who keep us safe as our families.”

Brown said the city needs to look to the future.

“We have to look at the com-plexe picture. We are where we are now because we wanted to go to do something,” he said. “We need to not only do what we need to do but get caught up and look toward the future. We need to grow to 80,000 people by the future. Tooele is projected to go beyond and look toward the future. We need to not only do what we are doing but grow as well.”

Councilman Brad Pratt said the city needs to look at ways to cut unneces-sary expenses.

“If we are now because we waited so long to do something,” he said. “We need to not only do what we need to do but grow as well.”

Pruden said that financially, they will have to pay.

“We have to do this. The city has done an ama-zing job to clean up our environ-ment and grow, and stop the high turnover and other jobs,” Pruden said.

“We don’t have enough nurses or police, and we want to fix this,” he said.

They (citizens) want the poli-cy officers leaving for other jobs,” Pruden said. “They deserve a pay increase. They trust us and want us to do it.”

Mr. Watson said that employees deserve a pay increase.

“We need to do something other than balancing the bud-get on the backs of our employ-ees,’’ Gosh said. “They don’t feel the way they need to. They feel like they need an increase for several years. It’s a tough situation to work through the hard times.

We need to take care of the people who keep us safe as our families. We need to be aware of the closures at UTTR.

Although Wimmer received enough votes to avoid a pri-mary, Adams collected enough signatures prior to the conven-tion to put his name on the primary ballot. Wimmer and Adams will face each other in a June 26 primary election open to voters in Tooele County registered as affiliated with the Republican Party. Wimmer worked in the Tooele City Police Department for 15 years before he decided to run for Tooele County Sheriff in 2014. He was serving as the Tooele City assistant chief of police at the time. Adams is retired from the Salt Lake and Tooele County Sheriff offices. He currently works for the Utah Department of Corrections as an Adult Probation and Parole Officer. There is no Democratic candidate for county sheriff from any other political party, so the winner of the Republican primary in June will advance, uncontest-ed, to the general election.

There were three Republican Party candidates for County Commission Seat B. The party’s convention elimi-nated Todd Stewart and sent Kendall Thomas and Brenda Faddis to a primary with a 64-52 vote in Thomas’ favor. Thomas, Stockton, is a retired URS employee. He currently is the program director for the Tooele Education Foundation. Thomas has served on the Tooele County School Board and the Stockton Town Council. Faddis, Stansbury Park, works in a managerial position for United Parcel Service. She was in a three-way primary race for the Republican nomination for the Tooele County Commission in 2016. For the last year Faddis has served on the Tooele County Government Study Committee. The winner of the Republican nomination for County Commission Seat B will compete against Democrat Brenda Spearman, Stansbury Park, in the general election.

In the race for the Republican nomination for county auditor, Tracey Marz received 65 delegate votes for 56 percent of the votes cast. Alison McCoy received 51 votes. With neither candidate receiving 60 percent of the vote, both will advance to the primary. The Democratic Party candi-date for county auditor is Sam Woodruff. The primary election will be June 26. Voters must be registered as affiliated with the Republican Party to vote in the Republican primary. Voters may check their registration status, including party affiliation at https://vote.utah.gov.

Angela Dobson is a health coach. She knows all about how to put the right fuel into the human body so you can feel healthy and fight disease. She taught her mother, Hallie Bateman, how complicated and wonderful food is. Hallie knew all about how to put the right fuel into the human body and soul. Only strong personal relationships will eliminate internal emptiness. Food fuels the body and strong personal relationships fuel the soul. She assumed that she meant little confusion here! We were just talking about using food to fuel the body. Could she be talking about using food to fuel the soul? Dobson then went on to explain the difference between eating the body and feeling food. Diet means the right foods at the right time. With eat, you apply food to the body. The soul is fed by the food one feels; that's what's important! But, it will never fill emptiness of the soul. Only strong personal relationships will eliminate internal emptiness! Food fuels the body and strong personal relationships fuel the soul. For women, it has a lot to do with the dual names of the sexes we live. We have physical body and it’s important. At the same time, and I am not just much more than just our physical nature. We — you and I — are complicated creatures. We need more Dobson explained one other. Dobson is a health coach. The Bible is not just talking about using food to fuel the body. Could she be talking about using food to fuel the soul? Dobson then went on to explain the difference between eating the body and feeling food. Diet means the right foods at the right time. With eat, you apply food to the body. A mother’s advice to her daughter—such as she guides them toward a source of information and strong and vivacious. She’s what to snack on so you’ll feel what time of day to eat and it will spur conversations that will ultimately lead to whether it truly filled that void? I assumed that she meant eating a banana. All Behind You, Winston

Churchill’s Great Coalition 1940-45

All Behind You, Winston tells the story of the men and women of Winston Churchill’s coalition government—those who helped win the Second World War. It explores the roles played by characters as diverse as the international newspaper magnate Lord Beaverbrook, who supplied the planes that won the Battle of Britain; the pugnacious trade union baron Ernest Bevin, who kept the nation working; Lord Woolton, the minister for food—a man so widely loved he was dubbed ‘Uncle Fred’; and Sir John Anderson, one of the first people to contemplate the awful power of the atom bomb.

Wild New World

Recreating Ice-Age North America

When humans first entered North America at the end of the last ice age, probably around 13,000 years ago, they would have encountered many fascinating creatures, such as ground sloths and glyptodonts, mammoths and mastodons, camels, horses and saber-toothed cats. The Wild New World takes us on a captivating journey back in time to follow in the footsteps of those first Americans. Moving across this vast continent region by region, present-day animals are studied for insights into older, now extinct species.
