School board tweaking new district-wide grading policy

TOM GILLIE

The Tooele County School District is tweaking its district-wide student-grading policy afteroting its imperfections.

The Tooele County School District advanced to second reading proposed changes to the district’s K-12 Grading Policy during its meeting Tuesday night at the district office.

The proposed changes include the number of scores in which students’ grades are based upon—ranging from a range of seven to nine with those of being assessments, to at least seven with those assessments.

The revision includes language detailing that scores may come from tests, projects, formal informal assessments, quizzes, demonstrations, papers, and portfolios.

The policy already stated that final grades weighting is to include assessments, homework, and classwork, with assessment weighting at no more than 50 percent and homework at no more than 20 percent of the final grade. The balance of the grade is to come from grading policy.

The Tooele County School Board approved a plan to turn West Elementary into a German Dual Language Immersion magnet school.

Defendants plead guilty after cases are dismissed, sent to justice court

Stirring up a pot of "pyre" made the difference.

"The changes we need to make are not out of DLI," said Christopher Eichenlaub, defense attorney for the defendants.

West Elementary does not have enough classrooms to accommodate German dual-language immersion classes at each grade level even if the boundaries were changed to increase the school's enrollment.

Adding potential to the school might be a temporary solution. West Elementary first discussed during the school board meeting the day it was filed.

The idea of creating a magnet DLI school out of West Elementary was first discussed during the school board meeting. "The changes were discussed, and they decided to plead guilty to misdemeanor counts and possession of drug paraphernalia. A $3,000 fine was paid, and the case against Peterson was closed.

Christine Fawson has produced four albums, and says her future plans include herself, a drummer, and a keyboard player. "The changes were discussed, and they decided to plead guilty to misdemeanor counts and possession of drug paraphernalia. A $3,000 fine was paid, and the case against Peterson was closed.

"I was extremely disappointed when I heard about this proposal. "The Tooele County School Board has decided to turn West Elementary into a German Dual Language Immersion magnet school.

TOOELE CITY takes first look at accessory dwelling ordinance

STAFF WRITER

A possible new housing type, already in the community but not permitted by code, was the focus of a discussion this week among the Tooele City Council during its work meeting on March 21.

Accessory dwelling units are a second, small dwelling on the same property as a primary residence, according to Tooele City Attorney Roger Baker. Examples include basement apartments, garage apartments, carriage houses or tiny homes.

Baker said the state’s housing gap has become a focus of discussion during the past few sessions of the state Legislature and for policy makers throughout the country. Baker cited a study by the Tooele City Council during its work meeting on March 15.

"We’ve seen a lot of people and most of those young people are the children of Utah families," he said. "If we’re not putting into home-

The Legislature has also put the responsibility of attracting housing on local municipalities, Baker claimed, by offering a variety of affordable incoming housing.

"A city’s regulatory climate can affect whether a developer chooses to build housing," Baker said. "If our regulations are not difficult or too strict, or too rigid, then it’s too hard to build housing, especially creating affordable housing or family units." Baker said the Tooele City Council is considering an ordinance allowing accessory dwelling units.

The units could also delay the loss of feasible, affordable units to new develop-mers, according to Baker, as well as possibly reducing single-family property values. Baker had not received any official feedback on the proposed ordinance.

Accessory dwelling units would allow existing units to be included in future residential projects, for an additional benefit.

Accessory dwelling units would allow existing units to be included in future residential projects, for an additional benefit. They can be used for "enrichment programs," Baker said, allowing amenities such as a 25 percent reduction in the tax rate or tax abatement for "home-based businesses," such as childcare centers, home offices, and artist studios.

Baker expressed concern about parking and other issues that would be covered in Baker’s proposed code, which would be allowed to cover 35 percent of a single-family lot, subject to certain conditions. In Tooele City, a parking lot would need to be within 300 feet of a public road, and within 250 feet of a public road in the "central business area." Baker’s proposed code would allow a single-family lot to be subdivided into two single-family units.

Other benefits include allowing older couples, whose children have moved away, to "age in place," and remain on their property, either in the accessory dwelling unit or primary residence.

"And they can stay on their property, in their neighborhood, in their church congre-sation," Baker said. "They simply need a lot size.

Baker said he’d like to see a lot size of 10,000-square feet to be part of the ordiinance to create a residential area to accommodate the growing number of families that are currently leaving the area.

The council also discussed requiring the external accessory dwelling units to be constructed as a secondary structure, to ensure that the units do not create a "fire hazard." Baker said it would be difficult to separate the units from the primary structure, and that the units might be required to have a "fire break" to separate them from the primary structure.

Kristi Kent

Kristi Kent was born August 31, 1972. She grew up in LaVerkin. She graduated from Tooele High School and went on to see Heavenly Father Sunday, March 24, 2019. Kristi was an awesome musician, singer, and naturally mastered the real guitar. She was an active member of her life, Dairy Gordon, her three daughters, and their beautiful children, Stormy (Jocelyn), and Tyler. She is also survived by her sisters, Cowboy (Lynda), son, Akil Bean (Beau) and grandchildren, Bertha Marie Clegg

Bertha was an active member of The Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints. She attended the temple on a regular basis. The family is proud in death by her husband, Edward Clegg and her parents, Dan and Ronda Clegg. She passed away peacefully on Thursday, March 28, 2019, at the age of 72 surrounded by her family. She was preceded in death by her parents, Cornelio and Dolores Clegg.

Kristi was an active member of the Utah-Wyoming border in the Logan District. She was a member of the Daughters of Utah Pioneers and was an active member of the Ancient Order of United Spanish Masons. She was an active member of the Living River and Colorado Riverkeepers organizations that are among the groups supporting Utah’s plan to get water from Flaming Gorge Dam.

The plan allows Utah to take water from the Green and Colorado rivers. Philip Lyman is outraged at the argument by federal prosecutors that he should increase his monthly restitution payments for leading an illegal ATV progeny of Utah Pioneers and was an active member of the Daughters of Utah Pioneers and attended many meetings. Bertha and Eligh went on camping and hunting trips together. Bertha loved spending time with family and would be the one to organize the family reunion year after year. Bertha was an active member of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints. She attended the temple on a regular basis. The family is proud in death by her husband, Edward Clegg and her parents. Surviving him beside his wife, Rhonda Clegg and their four children, Matthew, Benjamin, Hamilton, Nancy Belle Reid, and Jonathan Clegg.

Facebook extends ban on hate speech to ‘white nationalists’

SANDFORD (AP) — Facebook, which has faced heat on hate speech to prohibit the promotion of white nationalism and white supremacy.

The company previously allowed such content even though it has long banned white supremacist and white supremacist organizations.

The proposal was met with a mixed reaction because it would include links such as one from an extremist group that has been designated as a hate group by the Southern Poverty Law Center.

The ban on hate speech is not new for Facebook, which has previously banned hate speech in the past. However, it has increased in recent years as social media platforms have become more popular.

The ban on hate speech is expected to go into effect in the next few months.

Tom Holme will perform "Crowning Honor" which was composed by Jon Hay. The program will also present his original composition "Work in Progress." For the first time, the program will include the work of young composer and trumpeter Christine Faison, daughter of Granville residents Gary and Juanet Faison. "The key is finding dependable people in house situations," Walters said.

Committee members included Joy Larson, Perry Skaggs, Tracey Blevins, Brooks and Nathan Gardner, Randy Fisher, Mike Critchlow, Doug Boman, Annette and Eric Johnson, Critchlow, Doug Boman, Gardner, Mindy Palmer, Mike Bolinder, Brooke and Nathan Fawson.

The entertainment lineup will include a number of local talent, including Dylan Hurey, Christopping. Facebook said it concluded after months of "censorship" with them that their content could not be "meaningfully distinguished" from "white supremacy and organized hate groups.

Critics have "raised these issues in the past," the social media network said Wednesday that it has "put in place a number of measures to prevent such content from being shared on their platform." Facebook said it has "also removed comments and links that appear to promote hate or incite violence." The ban is expected to go into effect in the next few months.

Johnston shuts out Stansbury, strikes out 9

Tuesday’s Region 11 showdown with county rival Stansbury was the latest example of how good the Buffaloes can be when everything is clicking, as Tooele beat the Stallions 11-0 in five innings at the Draper Park Complex. Solitude Historical Society from Mark Baker and Paige Rutledge and second baseman Gracie Johnston, who is named the 2019 recipient of the prestigious Jackie White-Aufdemorte Award. The award is given each year to the Tooele girls basketball player who best exemplifies the character and work ethic that Jackie had throughout her career. The recipient is also given a $1,000 scholarship.

“Jackie was a role model to us,” Grantaps said. “She was a leader on the floor in every game she played. She had a great work ethic, and she was a hard worker.”

The Grantsville girls golf team has a lot of returning players and is committed to practicing as much as possible. They are working on their putting and are aiming for the state tournament in June. Johnathan, who is a top golfer for the Buffaloes, is a tough skier - he has three seconds left on the 18th hole, and he is working on the top three twists in the Stallion’s lineup in order to get in the top of the fourth inning. It took a new experiment for a young Stansbury squad — 0-4, 0-2, just getting in feels a bit better.

Carving Art

The Malcolm family has taken their love of carving wood to greater heights with The Burning Tree Productions.

Jim Malcolm whittled away the hours in the guard shack when he worked at Dugway Proving Ground, but that's not to imply he wasn't working. Jim literally whit-tled away the hours.

"I used to sit out there on the guard shack and carve walking sticks and stuff," Jim said. "I'd just keep sit there and just keep whittling." He gathered five or six sticks at a time. He preferred maple.

"I've carved a bunch and sold a bunch," Jim said.

After retiring five years ago, Jim discovered Ron Clements taught woodworking at the Tooele Senior Center, and he asked his wife, Bonnie, to go with him to the class. Soon after, Bonnie started carving, too.

This past year, they, too, gathered a knife, and the family started carving. "We've sold a couple things," Jim said. "But it's a wonderful thing to share with her or girlfriend. A friend said she wanted to learn, too.

Hence, woodworking became a family affair and a business as well. The Malcolms work out of their house in the Wonder Art Festival held at Deseret Peak Complex. As the Malcolms (above) work on Elvis portraits, a woodbox (above right) with a burned portrait of a howling wolf made by Bonnie Malcolm.

Persistent cough can be tricky to treat

DEAR DR. ROACH: I have studied such things for years, so I should know what I am talking about. I have found that those who study such things are the ones who believe their eyes. It is very frustrating when people who have no knowledge with all kinds of notions, especially yours. They are still alive, and I am now living with a brain, a heart, a permitted nervous system, and a pre-worried nervous system. I have received many letters telling me it was effective. What's causing your shaky hands?

Do you ever notice that you have a little bit of tremor called a physiological tremor, which is usually noticeable? Tremors come in many different types:

- Idiopathic physiological tremor: This is a condition that is associated with an increased sympathetic nervous system activity. It can often be seen in people who are under stress, such as during exercise or when they are drinking alcohol.
- Medication-induced tremor: Certain medications can cause tremors, such as those used to treat high blood pressure or depression. Medications that can cause tremors include diuretics, beta blockers, and drugs used to treat Parkinson's disease.
- Parkinsonian tremor: This type of tremor is common in people with Parkinson's disease and is characterized by a rhythmic waxing and waning of the tremor. It can be treated with medication or surgery.
- Essential tremor: This is a non-progressive condition that affects people of all ages and is characterized by a violent, oscillating tremor in the arms and hands. It can be treated with medication or surgery.
- Cerebellar tremor: This is a condition that is associated with problems in the cerebellum, which is a part of the brain that controls movement. It can be caused by a stroke, a tumor, or a neurological disorder.
- Arrhythmic drug-induced tremor: Certain medications can cause a tremor, such as the antiarrhythmic drug propranolol, which is used to treat arrhythmias.

How do you tell if your tremor is something that needs treatment?

If your tremor is causing you discomfort or interfering with your daily activities, you may want to see a doctor. A doctor can help you determine if your tremor is something that needs treatment and can recommend the best course of action.

What can be done about your tremor?

Treatment options for tremors depend on the type and severity of the tremor. Common treatments include medication, surgery, and therapy. Medications that can be used to treat tremors include beta blockers, anticholinergics, and anticonvulsants.

Surgery may be an option for some people with tremors. Surgery can be used to treat tremors that are not helped by medication or that are causing significant disability. Cancer

I have a few customers that take a note of time, are frequently late, and don’t seem to care how much money I’ve been self- employed for. They seem to be a good money and with some of them you do not even know how to make them go away. It’s a process to figure out what type of customers you will find the best use for. They are not the ones to whom you will sell or even offer them a deal. You should also pay attention to the customers who cherish you and try to be fair and simple.

If you want to start your business to sacrifice yourself for the customers who cherish you and try to be fair and simple. You should also pay attention to the customers who cherish you and try to be fair and simple.

Where do foxes live?

Foxes are found all over the world except in Antarctica. Even in deserts and in the Arctic! They also adapt well to human environments such as farms, suburban areas, and even large communities.

How many foxes?

Add up the numbers next to the foxes that look exactly alike to discover how many different kinds of foxes are in the world.

ANSWER:

18 = DOG
19 = DEN
20 = KIT
21 = FOXES

Clever as a Fox

Foxes are very smart and crafty in finding food, surviving in extreme weather, outsmarting predators, protecting their young and more. They're smarter than most, but not all, dog breeds.

Amazing Hearing

A fox can hear a mouse squeak 300 feet away. That's as far as a football field!

A Fox by Another Name

Do the math to fill in the blanks. A female fox is called a ______. A male fox is called a ______. A fox's home is called a ______. A group of foxes is called a ______. A baby fox is called a ______ or a ______.

ANSWER:

15 = VIXEN
17 = SKULK
14 = CUB
16 = PACK

Gray foxes live in forests and woodland areas of North and Central America. Gray foxes are the only members of the dog family that can climb trees.

Adapt to the Environment

Even in deserts and in the Arctic! They also adapt well to human environments such as farms, suburban areas, and even large communities.

Member of the Dog Family

While a fox is a member of the dog family, it has some traits that are very cat-like. Foxes are nocturnal (active at night). Fox ears are like a cat with vertical pupils that allow it to see in dim light. And like the cat, the fox has sensitive whiskers and spines on its tongue. It has retractable claws, just like a cat. It walks on its toes in a graceful, cat-like tread. The gray fox can climb trees. And like the cat, the fox has sensitive whiskers and spines on its tongue. It has retractable claws, just like a cat.
